

Morning Briefing, 2026-10-10 (London pre-open)

1. HEADER

Saturday 10 October 2026. Generated 06:16 London time (BST). Data collected approx 06:00 to 06:30 BST.

Weekend edition: all major markets are closed today. There are no futures quotes. Levels below are Friday 9 October closes (last session). Next European open is Monday 12 October.

2. IMPORTANT NEWS

Wall Street ends the week higher after tech rebound (TheStreet, CNBC). S&P 500 closed 7,811.51 (+0.59%), Dow +1.15% and Nasdaq +0.19% on the week. Nasdaq fell 1.25% Thursday on reports OpenAI revenue was below estimates. Earnings season is the next catalyst.

French budget strain hits European risk appetite (Investinglive, FXStreet). France 10Y yield near 5% this week, 4.83% Friday. CAC down 1.19% on the week. Eurogroup offered no unconditional bond backstop.

Oil stays near $100 on Middle East escalation (Schwab, Investing.com). Brent about 102.60 Friday, down 1.6% on the day. Energy costs keep inflation and yield pressure alive.

US long yields stay elevated before CPI (TheStreet, Trading Economics, Admiral Markets). 10Y around 5.23% to 5.31%, 30Y near 5.68%. CPI is Wednesday, last print before the Fed on 28 October.

Q3 US earnings season starts Tuesday with the big banks (Newsquawk, CMC Markets). FactSet sees S&P 500 Q3 EPS growth near 29.5%. JPMorgan, Goldman, Citi and Wells report 13 October.

5. US MARKETS: YESTERDAY'S SESSION

Index (Fri 9 Oct)	Close	Day %	Week %
S&P 500	7,811.51	+0.59%	+0.95%
Dow Jones	51,655.01	n/a	+1.15%
Nasdaq	27,366.17	n/a	+0.19%

Tone: rebound after Thursday's tech-led selloff (Nasdaq -1.25%). Traders positioned for a solid earnings season despite worries on energy prices and Treasury yields. S&P 500 posted a record close on Tuesday 6 October.

Sector leaders and laggards: n/a. Takeaway: tech bounce is fragile with the 10Y above 5.2% and CPI due Wednesday.

Collected approx 06:20 BST. CNBC shows S&P 7,811.54, minor difference.

6. ASIAN MARKETS: OVERNIGHT SESSION

Index (Fri 9 Oct)	Level	Day %
Nikkei 225	69,030.92	-0.02%
