

Morning Briefing

Thursday 8 October 2026 | London pre-open

1. HEADER

Thursday 8 October 2026

Generated 06:18 BST (London). Data collected approx. 06:15 to 06:45 London time from web searches run this session. Several primary sources (CNBC, Investing.com, TheStreet) were blocked, so many figures are n/a.

2. IMPORTANT NEWS

Wall Street retreats from records as yields and oil rise. (CNBC, Yahoo Finance, TheStreet, 7 Oct). S&P 500 -0.22%, Dow -0.66%. Why: bond yields near 24-year highs and oil back toward $100 hit risk appetite.

US 10Y yield hits 5.35% intraday, highest since 2002, then eases after $39bn auction. (CNBC, FXStreet, 7 Oct). Auction cleared at 5.3%, highest since 2000, but demand was solid. Why: sets the tone for global duration and equity valuations.

French 10Y OAT near 4.8% to 5% on fiscal worries. (Investing.com, Trading Economics, 1 to 7 Oct). EUR54bn consolidation plan, record EUR340bn borrowing planned for next year. Why: OAT-Bund spread above 150bp earlier this week, the widest since 2011. Euro weak (EUR/USD about 1.119).

Oil rises on Gulf tanker attacks. (Investing.com, FXEmpire, 7 to 8 Oct). WTI about $89.8, Brent sources conflict ($101 to $105). Why: energy costs feed inflation and the rate path.

Asia slips as sovereign bond strain worsens. (RTHK, Business Standard, 8 Oct). Reports that large tech groups plan to raise billions in debt add to competition for funding. Why: supply pressure on already stretched bond markets.
