

MORNING BRIEFING — 4 JUNE 2026

Generated: Wednesday 4 June 2026, ~07:00 BST (London) | Pre-European open | Data collected: 06:30–07:00 BST

2. IMPORTANT NEWS

S&P 500 snaps 9-day win streak as oil and yields surge on Iran fears

CNBC / TheStreet — 3 June 2026

S&P 500 fell 0.74% to 7,553.68, Dow lost 621 points. Oil and 10Y Treasury yields moved higher as US-Iran tensions revived inflation fears, forcing the index off its record above 7,600 set on June 2.

Broadcom posts record Q2 FY2026 revenues on AI semiconductor surge; Q3 guidance ~$29.4bn

Broadcom 8-K / Benzinga — 3 June 2026 (after close)

Record revenue, operating profit and free cash flow driven by AI chip demand. Q3 revenue guidance of $29.4bn and Adjusted EBITDA ~68% of revenue. Implies continued acceleration in AI infrastructure spend.

CrowdStrike beats EPS by 25% ($1.10 vs $0.88 expected), announces 3-for-1 stock split

CrowdStrike 8-K / TheStreet — 3 June 2026 (after close)

Strong cybersecurity demand confirmed. Split effective June 25 record date. Both AVGO and CRWD likely to gap up at open, providing a counterweight to yesterday's broad risk-off move.

Strait of Hormuz traffic remains well below pre-war levels despite April 8 US-Iran ceasefire

Wikipedia \(2026 Iran war fuel crisis\) / JPMorgan Global Research

IEA calls the disruption the "largest supply disruption in the history of the global oil market." Brent near $97/bbl. Persistent energy inflation risks delaying central bank easing globally.

ECB officials publicly signal June rate hike is likely as eurozone CPI hits 3.2% in May

Search aggregated / CNBC

Energy-driven inflation keeps ECB in restrictive mode. A June hike would further compress duration in EUR fixed income and widen peripheral spreads heading into summer.

3. EUROPEAN FUTURES (PRE-OPEN)

Data collected approx. 06:30-07:00 BST

INDEX	FUTURES LEVEL	EXPECTED MOVE	NOTE
Euro Stoxx 50 (FESX)	~6,042	n/a	Intraday range 6,029-6,054
DAX (FDAX)	n/a	n/a	Down yesterday -0.67%; oil headwind persists
CAC 40 (FCE)	n/a	n/a	Down yesterday -0.41%; auto/airlines drag
FTSE 100 (Z)	n/a	n/a	Near flat yesterday +0.03%; energy weighting supportive
US Futures (for context)
S&P 500 E-mini	n/a	Lower	Futures fell after index snapped 9-day win streak
Nasdaq 100 E-mini	n/a	Mixed/Higher	AVGO + CRWD post-earnings gains may offset weakness

Specific DAX, CAC and FTSE futures levels could not be confirmed from available sources. Verify on Bloomberg or Eurex before market open.

4. YESTERDAY'S EUROPEAN CLOSES — 3 JUNE 2026

Official close, 17:30 BST

INDEX	CLOSE	CHANGE (%)	TONE
Stoxx 600	624.32	−0.10%	Broad weakness; energy the only support
Euro Stoxx 50	n/a	n/a	Futures imply level near 6,000–6,050
DAX (Germany)	n/a	−0.67%	Auto sector −1.2%; oil input cost fears
CAC 40 (France)	n/a	−0.41%	Lufthansa/Air France off ~1% on fuel costs
FTSE 100 (UK)	n/a	+0.03%	Energy sector weighting provided modest offset
FTSE MIB (Italy)	n/a	−0.49%	Broad European risk-off sentiment

Absolute index close levels not confirmed; verify against official exchange data.

5. US MARKETS — SESSION 3 JUNE 2026

Official close, 21:00 BST / 16:00 ET

INDEX	CLOSE	CHANGE	CHANGE (%)
S&P 500	7,553.68	−56.5 pts	−0.74%
Nasdaq Composite	26,853.98	−241 pts	−0.89%
Dow Jones Industrial Avg	50,687.07	−620.72 pts	−1.21%

Session tone: Risk-off. The S&P 500 snapped a 9-day win streak that had carried the index above 7,600 for the first time (June 2 close). The selloff was broad-based, led by Financials and Consumer Discretionary, as rising oil prices and higher Treasury yields reignited inflation concerns. Energy was the session's sole outperformer. The catalyst was renewed focus on the Hormuz disruption and US Central Command reports of strikes on Qeshm Island.

Key takeaway: The AI/tech rally remains intact in after-hours (Broadcom and CrowdStrike both beat post-close), creating a potential split market on open — mega-cap tech higher, cyclicals and rate-sensitives under pressure.

6. ASIAN MARKETS — OVERNIGHT SESSION 3-4 JUNE 2026

Close times local; data collected 06:00-07:00 BST

INDEX	LEVEL	CHANGE (%)	NOTE
Nikkei 225 (Japan)	n/a	n/a	Most recent confirmed: 66,734 on June 2 (−0.3%)
Hang Seng (HK)	n/a	n/a	June 2 session: +2.41%; opened higher June 3 on Hormuz concerns
Shanghai Composite	n/a	n/a	No confirmed data for overnight session
Kospi (South Korea)	n/a	n/a	June 2 close: 8,801.49 (−0.15%)

Overall tone: Cautiously higher in early trading, per reports of Asia-Pacific markets opening higher on June 3 despite Hormuz volatility. Hong Kong remains the regional outperformer, supported by China stimulus expectations. Japanese equities pressured by yen dynamics and energy import costs. Specific overnight close levels not confirmed — verify on Bloomberg before market open.

Overnight June 4 Asian close data not confirmed from available sources.

7. COMMODITIES

Data collected approx. 06:30-07:00 BST

COMMODITY	LEVEL	CHANGE (%)	CONTEXT
Brent Crude ($/bbl)	$96.97	-0.86%	Slight pullback but elevated; Hormuz disruption keeps floor high. Surged from ~$80 at start of Iran conflict in early March 2026.
WTI Crude ($/bbl)	n/a	n/a	Typically $3-5 below Brent; verify on OilPrice.com
Gold ($/oz)	n/a	n/a	Geopolitical risk + inflation should be supportive; confirm on Bloomberg
Natural Gas ($/MMBtu)	n/a	n/a	LNG supply from Hormuz region disrupted; elevated risk premium
Copper ($/t)	n/a	n/a	Industrial demand barometer; confirm on LME or Bloomberg

Only Brent confirmed from search data. WTI, gold, natural gas and copper levels not sourced — marked n/a. Verify before use.

8. RATES & FX

Data collected approx. 06:30-07:00 BST

INSTRUMENT	LEVEL	CHANGE	DIRECTION
US 10Y Treasury Yield	~4.45%	n/a	Rising; above 4.45%, halted prior week's slide
German 10Y Bund Yield	n/a	n/a	ECB hike expectations adding upward pressure; verify on Bloomberg/Investing.com
EUR/USD	n/a	n/a	ECB vs. Fed divergence; confirm live rate
GBP/USD	n/a	n/a	Confirm live rate
DXY (USD Index)	n/a	n/a	Dollar likely supported by safe-haven demand and higher yields; confirm

US 10Y yield holds above 4.45% as oil-driven inflation data reduces scope for Fed cuts. Investors expect the Fed to keep rates elevated for longer given Middle East conflict adding to CPI. ECB is signaling a June hike, which should underpin Bund yields and could narrow the US-Germany spread moderately.

Only US 10Y confirmed (~4.45%). All other rates and FX data not sourced — verify on Bloomberg, Investing.com or Reuters before use.

9. DCM — PRIMARY BOND MARKET

YESTERDAY'S ISSUANCES (3 JUNE 2026)

No specific deal data confirmed from available sources for June 3, 2026. IFR / GlobalCapital subscription data not accessible. Check IFR Markets, GlobalCapital or Bloomberg DCM tracker for confirmed pricings.

PIPELINE / EXPECTED TODAY (4 JUNE 2026)

No confirmed mandates or roadshows sourced for today. The European Commission has indicated it intends to issue EUR 100bn of long-term EU Bonds between January and end-June 2026, with syndicated transactions still possible in the June window. Monitor IFR for intraday mandate announcements.

KEY SPREADS

INSTRUMENT	LEVEL (BPS)	CHANGE	DIRECTION
iTraxx Main (5Y)	n/a	n/a	n/a — check S&P SPDJI / MarketAxess
iTraxx Crossover (5Y)	n/a	n/a	n/a
CDX IG (5Y)	n/a	n/a	n/a
Avg EUR Corp IG Spread	n/a	n/a	n/a

COMMENTARY

Primary market conditions are becoming more complex. Rising oil prices and elevated Bund yields (driven by ECB hike expectations) are widening funding costs for euro corporate issuers. With eurozone CPI at 3.2% and the ECB likely to hike in June, the execution window this week is narrow for rate-sensitive borrowers in the investment-grade space. High-yield and sub-investment-grade issuers face a more selective reception. Energy sector names benefit from the oil price tailwind but face ESG pushback. Airlines and automotive issuers are in a difficult spot given margin pressure from fuel costs. SSA issuers with ECB eligibility retain access but will be pricing at wider new-issue concessions than a month ago.

10. ECONOMIC CALENDAR — 4 JUNE 2026

TIME (BST)	REGION	INDICATOR	CONSENSUS / ACTUAL	IMPORTANCE
n/a	Eurozone	Eurozone data releases	n/a — check Investing.com calendar	MEDIUM
n/a	UK	UK macro releases	n/a — check ONS / BoE schedule	MEDIUM
~13:15 BST	US	ADP National Employment Change (May)	Actual: +122K vs Forecast: +110K	HIGH
TBC	US	ISM Services PMI	n/a — check ISM / Bloomberg	HIGH
Preview	US	Nonfarm Payrolls (Friday June 5)	Consensus: +95K Unemployment: 4.3%	HIGH (FRIDAY)

ADP print of +122K beats forecast (+110K) and is the strongest since January 2025. This supports a better-than-feared NFP on Friday. However, the ADP-NFP correlation is loose. Given oil-driven inflation concerns, a stronger payrolls number would reinforce the "higher for longer" Fed narrative and could put additional upward pressure on yields and downward pressure on risk assets.

11. CORPORATE EVENTS & EARNINGS — 4 JUNE 2026

COMPANY / TICKER	EVENT	DETAIL
Broadcom (AVGO)	Q2 FY2026 Earnings (reported after close June 3)	Record revenues; Q3 guidance ~$29.4bn; AI chip revenue accelerating. Likely sharp open gap up today.
CrowdStrike (CRWD)	Earnings + Stock Split (reported after close June 3)	EPS $1.10 vs $0.88 expected (+25% beat). Announced 3-for-1 stock split, record date June 25. Expect gap up on open.
C3.ai (AI)	Earnings (reported June 3)	Results released June 3; specific beat/miss not confirmed. Monitor pre-market reaction.
FedEx Freight (FDXF)	First day of trading on NYSE	LTL shipping unit begins trading independently on NYSE. Key read-through for freight volumes and logistics sector.
Honeywell (HON)	Honeywell Aerospace Investor Day	Investor day for spun-off Aerospace unit. Watch for guidance update on avionics, defense electronics and SAF demand.
Aegon (AGO / AEG)	AGM (June 10 — upcoming)	Board proposes final dividend EUR 0.21/share; total 2025 dividend EUR 0.40/share. Reminder for dividend-focused accounts.

12. STOCKS TO WATCH

Broadcom AVGO — Nasdaq	Post-earnings gap up expected. Q2 FY2026 record revenues on AI chip demand; Q3 guide ~$29.4bn beats expectations. Strongest signal yet that AI semiconductor capex cycle is accelerating into H2 2026.	HIGHER ↑
CrowdStrike CRWD — Nasdaq	EPS beat $1.10 vs $0.88 (+25%). 3-for-1 stock split announced (record date June 25). Strong cybersecurity demand confirmed. Pre-market likely strongly higher.	HIGHER ↑
Lufthansa LHA — Frankfurt	Down ~1% June 3 on oil price spike. Brent near $97/bbl pressures fuel cost outlook. Watch for further analyst downgrade risk if oil sustains above $95. Read-through for Air France-KLM.	LOWER ↓
Air France-KLM AF — Paris	Co-moves with Lufthansa on fuel cost news. Down ~1% yesterday. Hormuz disruption creating structural fuel cost headwind for European carriers through summer schedule.	LOWER ↓
FedEx Freight FDXF — NYSE (IPO)	First day of trading as an independent LTL shipping company. Watch for pricing vs. indicative range and volume. Important read on freight market conditions amid global supply chain disruption.	WATCH
Honeywell Aerospace HON — Nasdaq	Aerospace investor day today. Any guidance upgrade on avionics, defense electronics or sustainable aviation fuel technologies could re-rate the stock. Defense electronics demand elevated with ongoing Middle East tensions.	WATCH / HIGHER
Vistra Corp VST — NYSE	US power producer benefiting from rising electricity demand from AI data centers and electrification. Analyst buy consensus. Energy sector outperformed yesterday in the risk-off session.	HIGHER ↑
European Autos (Sector) BMW, MBG, STLA — Various	Sector fell 1.2% June 3, worst performer. Oil-driven input cost fears and consumer spending pressure. Watch for further downside if oil holds above $95 or ECB hike confirmed.	LOWER ↓

13. MACRO / CORPORATE / POLITICAL HIGHLIGHTS

MACRO

ECB June hike increasingly probable. Multiple board members publicly signaling a rate increase at the June meeting. Eurozone CPI at 3.2% in May, driven by energy prices. A hike would extend the restrictive phase and compress duration across EUR fixed income.

US labor market resilient. ADP +122K in May, above forecast +110K and the strongest reading since January 2025. NFP Friday consensus at +95K. Fed rhetoric likely to stay hawkish given oil-driven CPI persistence. Market pricing of Fed cuts is being pushed further out.

Global energy inflation structurally elevated. Strait of Hormuz traffic remains well below pre-war levels despite the April 8 ceasefire. IEA has classified the disruption as the largest in history. No near-term resolution on shipping normalization is in sight.

CORPORATE

AI semiconductor cycle confirmed by Broadcom. Record Q2 revenues and strong Q3 guidance of $29.4bn signal that hyperscaler AI capex remains robust through 2026. This is a strong positive read-through for the AI supply chain (NVDA, TSMC, ASML).

Cybersecurity demand intact. CrowdStrike's 25% EPS beat and 3-for-1 split announcement reinforces the structural growth in enterprise security spending. The split broadens the shareholder base ahead of potential index rebalancing.

FedEx freight spin-off begins trading today. The LTL unit (FDXF) starts independent life on NYSE. A clean read on freight market health and a test of investor appetite for logistics assets at current valuations.

POLITICAL / GEOPOLITICAL

US-Iran: ceasefire fragile, Hormuz normalization stalled. Despite the April 8 ceasefire, US Central Command continues operations (strikes on Qeshm Island reported). Ship traffic through the Strait remains far below pre-war levels. The fuel crisis has triggered energy emergencies in multiple Asian countries and is feeding global inflation.

EU customs reform on e-commerce. From July 1, 2026, the EU removes the duty-free threshold for low-value goods, replacing it with a flat EUR 3 duty per item. This affects logistics volumes, e-commerce platforms and cross-border retail.

Middle East tensions elevating defense procurement urgency. European NATO members continue to accelerate defense budgets. Positive for European aerospace and defense names (Airbus, Rheinmetall, Leonardo, MBDA partners).

14. KEY THEMES — TOP 5 BY HORIZON

TODAY'S TOP 5

1. Broadcom & CrowdStrike Post-Earnings

Both beat after close; will they drag Nasdaq/tech higher and offset macro headwinds from oil and yields?

2. ADP Beat (+122K) vs NFP Preview

Strong ADP raises NFP expectations for Friday; higher-for-longer Fed narrative likely to firm up, pressuring rate-sensitive equities and bonds.

3. Brent at $97 — Airline & Auto Sector Pressure

Carriers and automakers underperformed yesterday; market watching whether oil consolidates here or pushes toward $100.

4. FedEx Freight (FDXF) First Trade

Spinoff IPO day; pricing and volume will be read as a sentiment indicator for the broader logistics and shipping sector.

5. Honeywell Aerospace Investor Day

Guidance on avionics, defense electronics and SAF; defense demand elevated with ongoing Middle East conflict.

THIS WEEK'S TOP 5

1. US Nonfarm Payrolls (Friday June 5)

Consensus +95K; a surprise in either direction will set the tone for Fed expectations through summer and drive bond and equity moves across the week.

2. ECB Communication Window

Multiple ECB officials speaking this week ahead of the June decision; each statement refining the probability and magnitude of the hike.

3. Oil Price Trajectory Post-Ceasefire

Any Hormuz reopening signal would cause a sharp oil correction and global risk-on move. Any re-escalation would send oil above $100.

4. AI Earnings Season Completion

Broadcom and CrowdStrike conclude the main US earnings reporting season; tone now shifts to macro data and central bank policy.

5. European Primary Market Window

Issuers assessing whether to execute before ECB hike risk closes the window further; activity this week will indicate risk appetite in EUR credit.

THIS MONTH'S TOP 5

1. ECB June Rate Decision

A hike would represent a significant policy pivot moment, reorienting EUR rates markets and creating fresh duration risk for European corporate bond holders.

2. Strait of Hormuz Resolution (or Escalation)

The key swing factor for global inflation, oil, LNG, shipping and emerging markets. Any normalization of traffic is the single biggest macro trade of the month.

3. EU E-Commerce Customs Reform (July 1)

EUR 3/item duty live in less than 4 weeks; logistics and e-commerce names must price in volume impact before month-end.

4. CrowdStrike 3-for-1 Split (June 25 Record Date)

Index rebalancing and retail broadening effect; watch for passive fund flows into CRWD in the weeks ahead.

5. Fed June FOMC Meeting

With ADP strong and oil keeping CPI elevated, the June FOMC statement on the rate path for H2 2026 will be closely parsed for any softening or hardening of the higher-for-longer stance.

15. KEY TRENDS TO WATCH

1 DAY

Tech/AI vs. Macro Split Open

Broadcom and CrowdStrike gaps up will test whether AI mega-cap strength can offset macro headwinds (oil, yields, Iran risk).

ADP/ISM Reaction

ADP beat already in; ISM Services later today is the next catalyst. A strong ISM would reinforce hawkish Fed bets and weigh on equities and bonds.

Oil at $97 — Airlines/Autos

Watch whether sector pressure continues or stabilizes. Oil pulling back toward $95 would be a relief; pushing toward $100 would accelerate the selloff in transport stocks.

1 WEEK

NFP Friday (June 5)

The week's defining data release. Consensus +95K after ADP +122K. A 150K+ print would cement "higher for longer" and weigh on rate-sensitive equities and longer-duration bonds.

ECB Speakers & June Hike Pricing

Each ECB comment this week adds or removes probability on the June hike. EUR credit and sovereign spreads will reprice accordingly.

Geopolitical Hormuz Watch

Any credible news flow on Hormuz normalization or re-escalation will be the dominant driver of oil, energy equities, airline stocks and global risk sentiment this week.

1 MONTH

ECB June Decision & Statement

A hike combined with a hawkish statement would reprice European fixed income and compress equity multiples in rate-sensitive sectors (real estate, utilities, financials).

Hormuz & Oil Supply Normalization

The single biggest macro wildcard for June. Oil above $100 would deepen the global inflation problem; normalization would release a deflationary impulse.

EU E-Commerce Duty (July 1) Adjustment

Logistics, retail, and e-commerce supply chains repricing before the rule change. Expect elevated freight volumes in June followed by a structural demand shift.

Fed FOMC & H2 Rate Path

June meeting stance on 2026 cuts or holds will anchor the long end of the Treasury curve and DXY for the summer.

SOURCES

- CNBC — S&P 500 futures fall after index snaps 9-day win streak (cnbc.com)
- TheStreet — Stock Market Today June 3 2026: Earnings liveblog for Broadcom, CrowdStrike, and Veera (thestreet.com)
- SEC EDGAR — Broadcom Inc. Form 8-K FY2026 (sec.gov)
- SEC EDGAR — CrowdStrike Holdings Form 8-K FY2026 (sec.gov)
- Benzinga — Earnings Scheduled For June 3, 2026 (benzinga.com)
- IndexBox — European Stock Markets Decline Amid West Asia Tensions (indexbox.io)
- Wikipedia — Economic impact of the 2026 Iran war (wikipedia.org)
- Wikipedia — 2026 Iran war fuel crisis (wikipedia.org)
- JPMorgan Global Research — US-Israel Military Operation Against Iran: Are Markets on Edge? (jpmorgan.com)
- TradingEconomics — Brent Crude Oil price (tradingeconomics.com)
- Schwab Network — Top Economic Data to Watch Week of June 1, 2026 (schwabnetwork.com)
- ADP National Employment Report — May 2026 (adpemploymentreport.com)
- Maersk — Europe Market Update June 2026 (maersk.com)
- EU Economic and Financial Committee — EU Bonds Issuance Calendar 2026 (europa.eu)
- MarketScreener — Corporate Earnings Calendar June 4 2026 (marketscreener.com)
- TipRanks — Best Stocks June 2026 (tipranks.com)

Data collected automatically between 06:30–07:00 BST on 4 June 2026. Several data points (DAX/CAC/FTSE close levels, German Bund yield, EUR/USD, GBP/USD, DXY, WTI, gold, copper, natural gas, iTraxx/CDX spreads, DCM deal specifics) could not be confirmed from available sources and are marked n/a. Verify all figures before making any investment or trading decision. This briefing is for informational purposes only and does not constitute investment advice.