

MORNING BRIEFING — TUESDAY 14 JULY 2026

Generated 07:15 BST (London) • Data collected between 06:00 and 07:15 BST, 14 July 2026 • Reference timezone: Europe/London (BST = UTC+1)

2. IMPORTANT NEWS

US reinstates Strait of Hormuz blockade, announces 20% cargo toll, effective 4pm ET today

Axios / NPR / CNN • 13 Jul 2026

Ceasefire with Iran has collapsed. Weekend saw renewed US strikes on Iran and Iranian strikes on Jordan, Qatar, Kuwait and Oman. US Navy will enforce a naval blockade of Iranian ports/coastal areas from 16:00 ET today; Trump frames the US as "guardian" of the strait, charging a 20% fee on transiting cargo. This is the dominant driver for oil, shipping, insurance and broad risk sentiment into the European open.

Oil spikes sharply on Hormuz escalation, Brent and WTI both surge

Reuters / Investing.com / Yahoo Finance • overnight 13-14 Jul 2026

Brent quoted in a wide $79-$85/bbl range and WTI $77-$80/bbl across sources overnight, both up sharply after a >9% single-session surge Monday; direction is consistent and verified across outlets but exact levels vary by snapshot — confirm on a live feed before trading. Roughly 20% of global oil/gas trade transits Hormuz, making this the top cross-asset story for the European open (energy equities, inflation-linked assets, freight, tanker/insurance names all in play).

SK Hynix record one-day plunge triggers Kospi "Black Monday" and global chip selloff

TradingKey / Yahoo Finance / Korea Times • 13 Jul 2026

SK Hynix fell 14-15% in Seoul, its largest one-day drop on record, on AI-memory demand/valuation concerns. Kospi fell 8.95% and triggered a market-wide circuit breaker; Samsung fell 9-10%. Micron fell 5.1-5.8% in the US. European chip names (ASML, Infineon, STMicroelectronics) were already down 1.5-2.4% in early trade indications ahead of today's open.

China June trade data beats sharply: exports +27% YoY, imports +36% YoY

South China Morning Post, citing Chinese customs data • released overnight 14 Jul 2026

Exports $412.39bn (+27% YoY vs +18.5% forecast); imports $286.76bn (+36% YoY vs +24.25% forecast); trade surplus $125.62bn, up from $105.43bn in May. H1 2026 exports +17.6%, imports +26.6%. A materially stronger-than-expected global demand signal and a rare positive data point cutting against the risk-off tape, though released before the latest Hormuz escalation headlines.

US June CPI and Q2 bank earnings (JPMorgan, Goldman Sachs, BofA, Wells Fargo, Citigroup) both due today

CNBC / The Motley Fool / FXLeaders • previewed 13 Jul 2026

CPI lands at 13:30 London time, simultaneous with the start of Q2 bank earnings season and ahead of Fed Chair Kevin Warsh's first congressional testimony this afternoon. Options markets are pricing large single-stock moves (Goldman Sachs ~6%, Citi/Wells Fargo ~5.5%, BofA ~4.5%, JPMorgan ~4.4%) — a major, still-unresolved catalyst for the session.

3. EUROPEAN FUTURES (PRE-OPEN)

CONTRACT	LEVEL	INDICATIVE MOVE	COLLECTION TIME
Euro Stoxx 50 futures	6,326 (unverified)	Conflicts with "little changed / mixed" qualitative reports — low confidence, treat with caution	~06:30 BST
DAX futures	n/a	No reliable today-dated figure found	—
CAC 40 futures	n/a	No reliable today-dated figure found	—
FTSE 100 futures	n/a	No reliable today-dated figure found	—
US context — pre-market futures
Dow e-mini	n/a	−0.1%	06:45 BST
S&P 500 e-mini	n/a	−0.1% to −0.2%	06:45 BST
Nasdaq 100 e-mini	n/a	−0.3%	06:45 BST

Futures softer/mixed after Monday's Iran-driven selloff. Markets are positioning ahead of June US CPI, Fed Chair Warsh's first testimony and the Q2 bank earnings kickoff, all due today. DAX/CAC/FTSE nominal futures levels were not available via open sources this morning; the Euro Stoxx 50 print found conflicts with qualitative "little changed" coverage and should not be relied on for execution.

4. YESTERDAY'S CLOSES — EUROPEAN INDICES (13 JULY 2026)

INDEX	CLOSE	CHANGE
Euro Stoxx 50	6,278	+0.13%
DAX 40	25,114.25	+0.19%
CAC 40	8,364.65 (alt. source: 8,351)	+0.31%
FTSE 100	10,498.29	+0.01%

European indices closed higher or flat despite an intraday dip on Iran strike headlines (Stoxx 600 was down 0.2–1% intraday at the worst point). Energy stocks (BP +2.6%, Eni +2.5%, TotalEnergies +1.9%, Repsol +1.7%) offset tech weakness (ASML –2%, Infineon –3%) as the Hormuz story began to unfold mid-session.

5. US MARKETS — YESTERDAY'S SESSION (13 JULY 2026)

INDEX	CLOSE	CHANGE	NOTE
S&P 500	7,515.34	–0.79%	—
Dow Jones Industrial Average	52,498.64	–0.26% (–138.37 pts)	—
Nasdaq Composite	25,873.18	–1.55%	One outlier source cites –1.41%

Tone: Risk-off. The selloff was triggered by Trump announcing reinstatement of the Hormuz blockade, spiking oil (Brent +3.7% to ~$79–80, WTI +3.5% to ~$73.90 on Monday's print) and reigniting inflation/rate concerns.

Leading sectors: Energy (XLE +3%, best performer), Utilities (+0.68%), Financials (+0.65%, ahead of today's bank earnings), Consumer Staples and Real Estate also among session leaders.

Lagging sectors: Information Technology and Communication Services (Alphabet –1.31% to $352.51); Nasdaq materially underperformed the Dow and S&P.

Key takeaway: A classic oil-shock rotation out of tech/growth into energy and defensives — the Dow's modest –0.26% decline masked a much sharper Nasdaq drop. Attention now shifts to today's CPI, Warsh's testimony and Q2 bank earnings.

6. ASIAN MARKETS — OVERNIGHT SESSION (14 JULY 2026)

INDEX	LEVEL	CHANGE
Nikkei 225	67,002 (open) → ~66,000 intraday (final close n/a)	Mon close -1.98%; extending -1.1% to -1.8% intraday Tue
Hang Seng	24,213 (Mon close) (Tue close n/a)	Mon close +0.20% (outlier, held gains)
Shanghai Composite	~3,913 (Mon close) (Tue close n/a)	Mon close -2.06% (lowest since 7 Apr); ~-1% intraday Tue
Kospi	6,807 (Mon close) (Tue close n/a)	Mon close -8.95% ("Black Monday", circuit breaker); provisional +0.5% intraday rebound Tue to ~6,840

Overwhelmingly risk-off, carrying over from Monday's rout triggered by the US-Iran Hormuz escalation. South Korea's chip sector was the epicentre: SK Hynix's record one-day plunge (-14/-15%) and Samsung's -9/-10% drop triggered Kospi's circuit breaker. Tuesday's partial Kospi rebound looks like fragile bargain-hunting rather than a genuine risk-on turn. Yen safe-haven buying was a consistent theme. Offsetting positives: strong China trade data and a strong Singapore Q2 GDP print (+5.7%). Confirmed final closes for today's session were not available at the time of writing — treat the levels above as directional, not final.

7. COMMODITIES

COMMODITY	LEVEL	CHANGE	TIME
Brent (ICE, USD/bbl)	~$79–83 (range across sources, up to $85.50 cited by one outlet)	+4% to +9.6% depending on snapshot	~06:00–09:00 BST
WTI (NYMEX, USD/bbl)	~$77–80	+3.5% to >+8%, highest since 22 June	~06:00–09:00 BST
Gold (XAU/USD, USD/oz)	$4,000–4,075 (wide spread across sources)	Drifting lower despite the crisis — rate-repricing dominating safe-haven bid	~06:00–09:00 BST
Natural gas (Henry Hub, USD/MMBtu)	2.89	–1.75% (13 Jul data)	13 Jul
Natural gas (TTF, EUR/MWh)	~48.66	–3% intraday; had spiked to €50 on 10 Jul	13 Jul
Copper (COMEX, USD/lb)	6.31	+1.25% (+14.72% YoY)	14 Jul

The Hormuz blockade is the single dominant driver across the entire commodity complex this morning — roughly 20% of global oil trade transits the strait. Oil prints are unusually wide and inconsistent across sources given the speed of the story; confirm on a live feed before use. Gold's failure to rally on a genuine geopolitical shock is notable and likely reflects the offsetting pull of higher-for-longer rate expectations. Copper continues to grind higher on Chilean supply disruption (water shortages, lower ore grades, labour disputes) layered on top of AI-infrastructure demand.

8. RATES & FX

INSTRUMENT	LEVEL	CHANGE	TIME
US Treasury 10yr	~4.61% (range 4.57-4.62%)	Near 7-week highs	~06:30 BST
German Bund 10yr	3.03% (13 Jul close; no confirmed 14 Jul print)	Down from 3.09% high (13 Jul intraday)	13 Jul close
EUR/USD	~1.140	+0.07%	~05:54 BST
GBP/USD	1.33825	-0.14%	~06:00 BST
DXY (Dollar Index)	~101.30	+0.3%	~06:00 BST

Yields and the dollar are both firmer on inflation/rate-hike repricing tied to the oil spike, with the US 10yr near a seven-week high. The Bund has pulled back somewhat from its 13 July high as some Iran de-escalation hope crept back in intraweek, though the blockade news overnight likely puts renewed upward pressure on European yields today. Sterling is soft, tracking the broader dollar bid.

9. DCM — PRIMARY BOND MARKET

YESTERDAY'S ISSUANCES (13 JULY 2026)

ISSUER	CURRENCY	SIZE	MATURITY	COUPON / SPREAD	NOTES
Corporate IG / HY / SSA / Financials	n/a	n/a	n/a	n/a	No deal-level pricing data (issuer/size/maturity/coupon/spread) sourced for the 13 Jul session via open web search — GlobalCapital/IFR data is paywalled. Bloomberg Terminal/IFR access required for confirmation.

Context (not from yesterday's session): the European Commission's most recent EU-Bond syndication priced €11bn dual-tranche (€6bn new 5yr, maturity 13 Oct 2031 + €5bn tap of the 20yr, maturity 12 Oct 2046) on 7 July 2026, with order books reportedly exceeding €83bn (~13.8x covered). Part of the Commission's €80bn H2-2026 funding target.

PIPELINE / EXPECTED TODAY

GlobalCapital's 14 July headline ("Opportunistic issuers eye window in Europe's IG corporate market") indicates a partially open but cautious window. France's Bastille Day (today) and the US June CPI release are both expected to subdue new EUR corporate supply early this week, with issuers positioning to use the window later on. No specific mandated issuer names, sizes or sectors could be confirmed for today via open sources.

KEY CREDIT SPREADS

INDEX	LEVEL (BPS)	MOVE / DIRECTION
iTraxx Europe Main 5yr	n/a	—
iTraxx Europe Crossover 5yr	246 (stale — 9 Jul print, 5 days old)	–5bps on 9 Jul, tightening, attributed to declining oil prices that day
CDX IG 5yr (USD)	n/a	—
Average EUR corporate IG spread	n/a	— iTraxx Main / CDX IG / average EUR IG spread: no current numeric level found via open sources — Bloomberg Terminal / ICE access required for confirmation. The Crossover print above pre-dates the latest Hormuz escalation and should not be treated as current.

PRIMARY MARKET COMMENTARY

The window is best described as partially open but opportunistic and data-dependent, not robustly risk-on. Bastille Day thins French desk participation today, and issuers are widely expected to sit through the CPI print before pricing anything meaningful. A "summer lull" narrative (LBBW, Amundi) is also building across European credit ahead of August. Earlier in July, the Iran ceasefire scare briefly pushed European rates and OAT yields to multi-year highs before partially reversing — the fresh overnight escalation likely reintroduces that volatility into today's session. Heavy 2026 SSA gross issuance (~€1.4trn) against ECB QT remains a structural headwind for spreads and free float through the second half of the year. No EUR-specific sector colour (industrials, transport, energy, financials) could be sourced for this week specifically.

10. ECONOMIC CALENDAR TODAY (14 JULY 2026)

TIME (LONDON)	ZONE	INDICATOR	CONSENSUS	IMPORTANCE
13:30	US	June CPI (headline, MoM/YoY)	~-0.1% MoM / ~3.8-3.9% YoY	HIGH
13:30	US	June Core CPI (ex food & energy)	~+0.2-0.24% MoM / ~2.8-2.9% YoY	HIGH
15:00	US	Fed Chair Kevin Warsh — semiannual monetary policy testimony, House Financial Services Committee	n/a — first appearance as Chair, event risk not consensus	HIGH n/a	UK	GDP / trade / industrial production	Not confirmed for this exact date	n/a n/a	Eurozone	No confirmed high-importance release	ZEW sentiment is 21 Jul, not today	n/a

US June CPI lands at 13:30 London time — mid-European-afternoon, not after the European close — so it will move European trading directly, not just set up the US open. Fed Chair Warsh's first congressional testimony at 15:00 London compounds the risk: any hawkish tone on oil-driven inflation would add to the pressure already building on rates and risk assets this morning.

11. CORPORATE EVENTS & EARNINGS TODAY

COMPANY	MARKET	EVENT	TIME
JPMorgan Chase (JPM)	NYSE	Q2 2026 earnings — cons. EPS ~$5.44-5.61	Pre-market US
Goldman Sachs (GS)	NYSE	Q2 2026 earnings — cons. EPS ~$14.47, revenue ~$15.8-16.49bn	Pre-market US
Bank of America (BAC)	NYSE	Q2 2026 earnings — cons. EPS ~$1.12, revenue ~$30.7bn	Pre-market US
Wells Fargo (WFC)	NYSE	Q2 2026 earnings — cons. EPS ~$1.71-1.74, revenue ~$21.83-21.86bn	Pre-market US
Citigroup (C)	NYSE	Q2 2026 earnings — cons. EPS growth ~40% YoY (exact figure n/a)	Pre-market US
Ericsson (ERIC)	Stockholm / Nasdaq	Q2 2026 report — cons. revenue ~$5.56-5.59bn, EPS ~$0.09-0.11 (down YoY)	06:00 London (07:00 CEST)
DNB Bank ASA	Oslo	Q2 2026 earnings	n/a

The heavy US bank earnings slate is today's dominant corporate catalyst, landing before New York's open and well before the CPI print. Ericsson reports ahead of the European open. Note: two other names (BP, Rio Tinto) appeared in one calendar aggregator for today but conflict with each company's own published reporting dates — excluded here as unreliable.

12. STOCKS TO WATCH

JPMorgan Chase (JPM) — US	Q2 earnings pre-market. Options market implies ~4.4% single-day move. Trading/IB revenue expected up sharply (KBW: trading +14%, IB +26% YoY).	Watch / volatile
Goldman Sachs (GS) — US	Q2 earnings pre-market. Options market implies ~6% single-day move, the largest of the big five reporting banks today.	Watch / volatile
Scorpio Tankers (STNG) — US	Beneficiary of rising tanker freight and war-risk rates as Hormuz transits fall to a two-month low. Direct read-through from the blockade.	Bullish
ExxonMobil (XOM) — US	Q2 upstream earnings estimated to get a $3.5–3.9bn boost vs Q1 from the oil price spike. Read-through positive for Chevron and Shell too.	Bullish
American Airlines (AAL) — US	Downgraded to Hold from Buy at Melius Research on capacity/margin concerns; down 4–5% on weaker travel demand and rising fuel costs from the oil spike.	Bearish
Micron (MU) / European chip names (ASML, Infineon, STM)	Extending the SK Hynix-driven memory-chip selloff. Micron down 5.1–5.8% in the US; European names down 1.5–2.4% in early indications ahead of today's open.	Bearish
Rheinmetall (RHM) — XETRA	Down ~17% YTD despite 40–45% guided sales growth. NATO summit delivered no fresh binding commitments; Germany cancelled the multi-billion-euro F126 frigate programme, where Rheinmetall was expected lead contractor.	Bearish / watch
Segro (SGRO) — LSE	Prologis pressing Segro's board for talks after a rejected £12.6bn all-share takeover approach. Rule 2.6(a) "put up or shut up" deadline is 17:00 London on 22 July.	M&A watch
Marsh & McLennan (MMC) — US	Marine war-risk insurance rates have reportedly risen to 2–6% of vessel value (from a fraction of a percent pre-conflict), a direct pricing-power tailwind from the Hormuz crisis.	Bullish / watch
Delta Air Lines (DAL) — US	Already reported Q2 (revenue $17.7bn, adj. EPS $1.56, +14% YoY) and reaffirmed full-year guidance despite record fuel costs. Sets the tone for the rest of the airline sector into today's session.	Neutral / sector tone-setter

13. MACRO / CORPORATE / POLITICAL HIGHLIGHTS

MACRO

US-Iran Hormuz crisis is the dominant macro shock: ceasefire collapse, US blockade plus 20% cargo toll effective today, ~20% of global oil trade at risk of disruption.

Oil spike reigniting inflation/rate-hike repricing: US 10yr near a seven-week high (~4.61%), dollar firmer (DXY ~101.30); gold's failure to rally is a notable counter-signal.

Today's key US catalysts: June CPI at 13:30 London and Fed Chair Warsh's first congressional testimony at 15:00 London — both land during European trading hours.

China trade data beat sharply: exports +27% YoY, imports +36% YoY — a rare positive data point against an otherwise risk-off tape.

CORPORATE

Big US bank earnings today: JPMorgan, Goldman Sachs, BofA, Wells Fargo and Citigroup all report pre-market. Strong trading/IB revenue expected, but options markets are pricing outsized single-stock moves.

SK Hynix's record plunge: triggered Kospi's "Black Monday" (−8.95%, circuit breaker) and dragged global memory/chip names (Micron, Samsung, ASML, Infineon, STM) lower on AI-memory demand/valuation concerns.

Segro under takeover pressure: Prologis is pressing for talks after a rejected £12.6bn all-share approach; firm-intention deadline 22 July.

Novartis agreed to acquire UK biotech Myricx Bio for up to $1.5bn ($1.1bn upfront, $400m milestones), expanding its oncology ADC pipeline; expected to close H2 2026.

POLITICAL / GEOPOLITICAL

Hormuz blockade: Trump announced a US naval blockade of Iranian shipping and a 20% cargo toll effective 16:00 ET today, following a weekend of renewed US strikes on Iran and Iranian strikes on Jordan, Qatar, Kuwait and Oman.

NATO summit disappointment: no fresh binding commitments delivered; Germany cancelled its multi-billion-euro F126 frigate programme, hitting Rheinmetall and broader European defence sentiment.

Bastille Day (France, today): expected to thin desk participation and EUR primary bond supply early this week.

14. KEY THEMES — TOP 5 BY HORIZON

TODAY'S TOP 5

1. Hormuz blockade takes effect (16:00 ET)

Binary risk event: any pause or negotiation signal triggers a relief rally in oil-sensitive assets; further escalation drives a fresh risk-off leg.

2. US June CPI (13:30 London)

A hot print (near 3.9% YoY) compounds rate-hike repricing already under way; an in-line or soft print could stabilise duration and risk assets.

3. Fed Chair Warsh's first testimony (15:00 London)

First public policy signal from the new Chair. Tone on inflation versus growth sets the near-term rates trajectory.

4. Q2 bank earnings avalanche

JPMorgan, Goldman Sachs, BofA, Wells Fargo, Citigroup all report pre-market with options pricing 4-6% single-stock moves — sets the tone for the wider tape.

5. Asian chip-sector stabilisation attempt

Kospi's tentative rebound after Monday's circuit-breaker crash will signal whether European chip names find a floor at the open.

THIS WEEK'S TOP 5

1. Hormuz disruption trajectory

Tanker traffic, war-risk insurance pricing and freight rates will show whether the blockade materially disrupts flows or proves largely symbolic.

2. EUR primary bond market reopening

A cautious, opportunistic window per GlobalCapital — watch for the first EUR corporate/SSA mandates once Bastille Day and CPI are out of the way.

3. Full US Q2 bank earnings read-through

Beyond today's five, the rest of the sector reports through the week, testing whether NIM and trading strength offset credit-cost normalisation.

4. Segro / Prologis takeover situation

The formal deadline (22 Jul) is next week, but this week's newsflow on board engagement will move the stock and UK REIT sentiment.

5. China trade strength follow-through

Confirmation or fade of the sharp June export/import beat will shape commodity and EM-linked equity positioning into the back half of the week.

THIS MONTH'S TOP 5

1. Strait of Hormuz endgame

Diplomatic resolution versus sustained disruption is the largest swing factor for oil, inflation expectations and global rates for the rest of July.

2. Fed under Warsh — first full month

Markets will look past today's testimony to actual policy signals; a hawkish drift given oil-driven inflation risk would pressure long-duration assets through August.

3. European government bond supply wave

~€1.4trn 2026 gross SSA issuance against ECB QT is a structural headwind for European rates and spreads over the summer.

4. Global chip-sector valuation reset

SK Hynix's crash raises the question of whether the AI-memory trade is due a broader multi-week correction across Asian and European semiconductor names.

5. NATO / European defence spending follow-through

Germany's F126 cancellation raises doubts about the durability of the post-summit defence capex narrative that has supported names like Rheinmetall through 2026.

15. KEY TRENDS TO WATCH

1 DAY

Hormuz blockade effective 16:00 ET: headline risk through the session; any de-escalation signal reverses the current risk-off tape quickly.

US June CPI, 13:30 London: mid-European-session — a hot print hits duration and risk assets intraday, before New York even opens.

Warsh testimony, 15:00 London: first policy tone-setting from the new Fed Chair, likely to move rates and the dollar into the European close.

Bank earnings avalanche: JPM/GS/BAC/WFC/C results and management commentary on the Iran shock will set the tone for US risk appetite into tomorrow's European open.

1 WEEK

Hormuz disruption data: tanker transit counts, freight and war-risk insurance pricing will clarify whether this is a lasting supply shock.

EUR bond market reopening: first read on real issuer appetite and investor demand after a subdued start to the week.

Rest of bank earnings season: read-through for NII, credit costs and capital markets activity from the remaining US names and early European reporters.

Asian chip-sector path: whether Monday's Kospi crash was a one-off air-pocket or the start of a broader correction.

1 MONTH

Iran/Hormuz resolution path: diplomatic off-ramp versus prolonged disruption is the dominant swing factor for oil, inflation and rates through Q3.

Fed policy trajectory under Warsh: first full month of communication will anchor rate expectations into the September FOMC.

European summer bond supply absorption: heavy SSA calendar against ECB QT tests investor demand through the seasonally thin August window.

AI/semiconductor capex durability: whether the memory-chip selloff spreads to broader AI capex names over the coming weeks.
