

MORNING BRIEFING — SATURDAY 19 SEPTEMBER 2026

Generated 19 September 2026 • 07:50 BST (London) • Data collected between 06:30 and 07:45 BST via open web sources • Reference timezone: Europe/London (BST = UTC+1)

Weekend edition. European, US and Asian markets are all closed Saturday. Next trading day: Monday 21 September 2026. All closing levels below are Friday 18 September 2026 unless stated otherwise. Genuine Monday pre-open futures levels were not available via open sources at this Saturday collection time (US e-minis reopen 18:00 ET / 23:00 BST Sunday; European futures resume ahead of Monday's cash open).

2. IMPORTANT NEWS

Fed hikes for the first time since 2023, taking rates to 3.75%-4.00%

CNBC / Federal Reserve / Fox Business / Charles Schwab • Wed 16 Sep

The FOMC voted 12-0 to raise the federal funds rate 25bp to 3.75%-4.00%, its first hike since 2023, citing hot CPI/PPI and Middle East-driven energy inflation. Sixteen of eighteen officials see at least one more hike this year, with year-end projections clustered between 4.10% and 4.40%. This is a genuine regime change after years of cuts and holds and is now the dominant driver of the US 10-year's move toward 5%.

Bank of England holds at 3.75% on a split 6-3 vote, signals hike likely in November or December

BNN Bloomberg / Local10 / Cambridge Currencies • Thu 17 Sep

Six MPC members voted to hold, three backed an immediate quarter-point rise to 4.00%. The Bank said it is ready to raise rates soon to counter Iran war-driven inflation, and markets now see a hike as more likely than not at one of the next two meetings. A hawkish hold, not a genuine pause.

Bank of Japan hikes to 1.25%, third increase in under a year, fastest tightening pace since 1990

FXStreet • Fri 18 Sep

The BoJ's move to 1.25%, its highest since 1995, added to a synchronised week of hawkish central-bank action alongside the Fed and a hawkish BoE hold. It contributed to broad dollar strength into Friday's close, with the DXY touching its best level since late July.

Strait of Hormuz war reaches Day 203, fresh tanker attacks reported Friday despite fragile ceasefire framework

GlobalSecurity.org / CBS News • Fri 18 Sep

A UK navy agency reported a second tanker hit by a projectile in the Strait of Hormuz early Friday. President Trump said he is poised to make a "big decision" on a major assault to "annihilate" the Iranian regime. The underlying US-Iran ceasefire framework (the Islamabad memorandum) remains only partially holding; Iranian air defences are assessed at roughly 90% degraded. This remains the single biggest swing factor for oil, freight and European risk sentiment into Monday.

Warren Buffett steps down as Berkshire Hathaway chairman after six decades, son Howard succeeds

Bloomberg / CNBC / Washington Post • Fri 18 Sep

Buffett, 96, becomes chairman emeritus and remains a board director; Howard Buffett takes the chairman role while Greg Abel continues to run the company. A symbolic changing of the guard at one of the world's largest conglomerates, with no immediate operational read-through expected but a watch item for Berkshire shares Monday.

3. EUROPEAN FUTURES (PRE-OPEN)

CONTRACT	LEVEL	IMPLIED MOVE	COLLECTION TIME
Euro Stoxx 50 futures	n/a — no weekend reopen data available	Index futures do not trade Saturday/Sunday; last reference is Friday cash close (Section 4)	06:30-07:45 BST
DAX futures	n/a — no weekend reopen data available	See Friday DAX cash close, Section 4	06:30-07:45 BST
CAC 40 futures	n/a — no weekend reopen data available	See Friday CAC 40 cash close, Section 4	06:30-07:45 BST
FTSE 100 futures	n/a — no weekend reopen data available	See Friday FTSE cash close, Section 4	06:30-07:45 BST
US context — futures reopen Sunday ~23:00 BST (18:00 ET)
S&P 500 e-mini	n/a — had not yet reopened at data-collection time	Reopens Sunday 18:00 ET / 23:00 BST	06:30-07:45 BST
Nasdaq 100 e-mini	n/a — had not yet reopened at data-collection time	Same as above	06:30-07:45 BST

This edition was collected Saturday morning BST, before both the Sunday evening US e-mini reopen and Monday's European pre-open, so no genuine futures levels exist yet. Directionally, Friday's session leaves a cautious, mixed handoff: US indices closed a touch higher (breadth was negative) as the 10-year Treasury yield pushed through 5%, European cash indices sold off 1.4-1.6% on renewed Hormuz tanker attacks, and Asia closed broadly firmer on the back of Thursday's Wall Street strength. Three central-bank moves this week (Fed hike, hawkish BoE hold, BoJ hike) leave rates markets genuinely repriced into Monday. Recommend checking a live terminal or CME/Investing.com futures pages directly after the Sunday evening US reopen, and again at the European pre-open.

4. FRIDAY'S CLOSES — EUROPEAN INDICES (FRIDAY 18 SEPTEMBER 2026)

INDEX	CLOSE	CHANGE
Euro Stoxx 50	6,235.45	−1.38%
DAX 40	25,304	−1.60%
CAC 40	8,065.02	−1.49%
FTSE 100	~10,651-10,659 (sources range 1.3%-1.5% lower; primary figure 10,659.13)	−~1.45%

European equities sold off broadly Friday, their worst session since July for the FTSE 100, as a fresh wave of Strait of Hormuz tanker attacks overshadowed stronger-than-expected UK retail sales and reversed most of the week's earlier gains. Frankfurt led the region lower, dragged down by autos: Volkswagen (−5.97%), Porsche (−5.19%) and Mercedes-Benz (−4.76%) were the DAX's heaviest fallers. Banks and energy names also weighed on the FTSE 100. This is the base case for Monday's open pending confirmed futures.

5. US MARKETS — FRIDAY'S SESSION (FRIDAY 18 SEPTEMBER 2026)

INDEX	CLOSE	CHANGE	NOTE
S&P 500	7,650.50	+0.17% (+12.74 pts)	Ended a volatile, Fed-hike week narrowly higher
Dow Jones Industrial Average	51,682.64	−0.18% (−95.40 pts)	Lagged on rate-sensitive and industrial names
Nasdaq Composite	26,522.55	+0.39% (+104.25 pts)	Outperformed on tech resilience

Wall Street closed a genuinely volatile week on a mixed note: index-level moves were small, but the majority of individual stocks fell as the 10-year Treasury yield pushed through 5.00% for the first time since the current tightening scare began. American Airlines rose roughly 2% as easing oil offered short-term relief from surging jet-fuel costs, while Berkshire Hathaway was in focus after Warren Buffett's chairman transition. Bitcoin surged roughly 5% above $80,000 the same session, a notable risk-appetite signal alongside the equity mix. Key takeaway: the Fed's first hike since 2023 is now fully in the price, and Friday's session shows a market more focused on the bond-yield fallout than on the initial hike decision itself.

6. ASIAN MARKETS — LAST SESSION (FRIDAY 18 SEPTEMBER 2026)

INDEX	CLOSE	CHANGE
Nikkei 225	65,018.95	+1.38%
Hang Seng	24,750.78	+0.60%
Shanghai Composite	3,911.87	+0.94%
Kospi (South Korea)	6,894.23	+2.66% (+178.82 pts)

Asia is closed Saturday; Friday remains the region's last completed session, with Monday's Asian open (Sunday night/Monday morning UK time) the next available read ahead of the European open. Asia closed broadly higher Friday, tracking Thursday's Wall Street rally and a return of foreign buyers to the Kospi after eight sessions of net selling, with semiconductor strength driving the 2.66% jump. The Bank of Japan's hike to 1.25% on the same day was absorbed calmly by the Nikkei, which still closed higher. China's PBoC loan prime rate review falls over the weekend (Sunday 20 September), with all surveyed economists expecting rates held for a 16th straight month; that decision lands just ahead of Monday's Asian open.

7. COMMODITIES

COMMODITY	LEVEL	CHANGE	TIME
Brent (ICE, USD/bbl)	$103.87	Eased from the week's highs above $105-109 as Saudi Arabia rerouted crude via a pipeline bypassing the Strait	Fri 18 Sep
WTI (NYMEX, USD/bbl)	$101.21-$102.15 (sources vary; treat as approximate)	~0.7% d/d per Trading Economics reading	Fri 18 Sep
Gold (XAU/USD, USD/oz)	$4,384.78	+1.00% d/d	Fri 18 Sep
Natural gas (Henry Hub, USD/MMBtu)	$2.90	-0.06% d/d	Fri 18 Sep
Copper (COMEX, USD/lb)	$6.63	+0.72% d/d	Fri 18 Sep

Oil eased for a third straight day even as fresh tanker attacks were reported Friday, as Saudi Arabia's pipeline reroute around the Strait of Hormuz partially offset the shipping-attack risk premium; Brent nonetheless remains above $100 and up sharply on the month. Gold's gain reflects continued safe-haven demand tied to the war and the newly-hawkish central-bank backdrop; miner Zijin Mining is guiding to 2026 gold output of 105 tonnes and average gold/copper price assumptions of $4,700/oz and $11,000/tonne respectively, both implying further structural upside is priced by producers. Copper is up roughly 45% year-on-year per Trading Economics, a genuinely large move that likely reflects both the gold-adjacent safe-haven bid and AI/data-centre-driven demand themes; treat the year-on-year figure as directional pending a live terminal check.

8. RATES & FX

INSTRUMENT	LEVEL	CHANGE	TIME
US Treasury 10-year	5.00%	+0.06pp d/d; crossed 5% for the first time this cycle	Fri 18 Sep
German Bund 10-year	3.52%	+0.04pp d/d	Fri 18 Sep
EUR/USD	1.1461	−0.14% d/d; weakest level since late July	Fri 18 Sep
GBP/USD	1.3392	+0.27% d/d, though still near its weakest level since late July	Fri 18 Sep
DXY (Dollar Index)	~100.30-100.50	Touched 100.50 intraday, best level since late July, before easing to ~100.30	Fri 18 Sep

This week delivered a genuine hawkish trifecta: the Fed hiked to 3.75-4.00% (its first hike since 2023), the Bank of England held but on a hawkish 6-3 split, and the Bank of Japan hiked to 1.25%, its third move in under a year and the fastest pace of tightening since 1990. The US 10-year crossing 5% for the first time this cycle is the standout move and is now the dominant cross-asset driver heading into Monday. Both EUR/USD and GBP/USD sit near their weakest levels since late July despite the ECB's own hike earlier this month, consistent with dollar strength dominating on the back of the Fed's hike and near-5% yields. Re-verify all figures against a live terminal before Monday's 08:00 BST cash open.

9. DCM — PRIMARY BOND MARKET

FRIDAY'S ISSUANCES

ISSUER	SIZE	MATURITY	COUPON/SPREAD	IPT-TO-PRICING
--------	------	----------	---------------	----------------

No EUR-denominated corporate IG, HY, SSA or financials deal could be confirmed as pricing specifically on Friday 18 September via open sources; GlobalCapital and IFR deal-level pages remained subscriber-only. The broader September window, however, is confirmed exceptionally busy: Bloomberg data showed the largest single-day count of US corporate issuers in European markets on record earlier in the week (9 September), with Amazon marketing its first sterling bond and Uber debuting in euros alongside four other US issuers the same day.

PIPELINE / EXPECTED THIS WEEK (WEEK OF 21 SEPTEMBER)

GlobalCapital's "issuance burst" framing and The DESK's description of September as having "exploded" with new corporate bonds both point to a heavy pipeline continuing into the week of 21 September. A structurally important theme is the growing weight of US hyperscaler issuance in euros: Alphabet, Amazon, Meta, Microsoft and Oracle now hold roughly €40bn of euro-denominated bonds between them, and the ECB has flagged concern this could crowd out European borrowers and add upward pressure to regional corporate yields. No specific mandated or roadshowing euro deal could be confirmed by name for the week of 21 September via open search; expect continued reverse-Yankee and AI/data-centre capex-linked supply alongside the usual autumn SSA and financials calendar.

KEY SPREADS

INDEX	LEVEL	MOVE / DIRECTION	AS OF
iTraxx Europe Main 5yr	n/a — current absolute level not found via open sources	Reported trading roughly 2bp wider than CDX IG on the current on-the-run series	September 2026 (qualitative only)
iTraxx Europe Crossover 5yr	n/a — current level not found via open sources	Last confirmed reference: ~318bp in mid-May 2026 (Series 45), now stale	Mid-May 2026 (stale)
CDX IG 5yr (USD)	n/a — current absolute level not found via open sources	Reported roughly 2bp tighter than iTraxx Main on the current series	September 2026 (qualitative only)
Avg euro corporate IG spread (OAS proxy)	n/a — not found via open sources this session	—	—

No current-week absolute iTraxx Main, Crossover or CDX IG level could be sourced via open web access this session. Bloomberg Professional, GlobalCapital, IFR and cbonds pages remained paywalled or returned only headline-level content. A live terminal is required for same-day confirmation before Monday's open.

COMMENTARY

Primary market conditions head into the week of 21 September genuinely strong on volume but with rising rate risk. The record pace of US hyperscaler euro issuance is crowding the calendar and is now an ECB-level concern for European corporate borrowers' funding costs. Layered on top is a week that just saw the Fed's first hike since 2023 and the US 10-year cross 5%, both of which raise the cost of new supply and argue for issuers who can to keep pulling deals forward. Expect the window to stay open but new-issue premiums to be tested more than in recent weeks; skew likely remains toward financials (rate-hike NII beneficiaries) and industrials/transport names tied to the shipping and defense demand stories. Recommend a live IFR/GlobalCapital and Bloomberg spread check before Monday's window opens.

10. ECONOMIC CALENDAR (MONDAY 21 SEPTEMBER 2026 AND WEEK AHEAD)

DATE	REGION	INDICATOR	CONSENSUS	IMPORTANCE
Sun 20 Sep (ahead of Mon Asia open)	China	PBoC 1yr/5yr Loan Prime Rate	Held at 3.00% / 3.50%, 16th straight month unchanged	MEDIUM
Mon 21 Sep	Eurozone / UK / US	No high-importance release specifically confirmed for Monday via open sources	n/a	LOW
Wed 23 Sep	Eurozone / Germany / UK / US	Flash PMIs (Manufacturing & Services), S&P Global	UK composite seen ~52.5 (services ~52.5, manufacturing ~51.7); Eurozone/US not confirmed via open sources	HIGH
Thu 24 Sep	China / US	Xi Jinping state visit to the US begins (Trump-Xi summit)	n/a — political/trade event, not a data release	HIGH
Thu 24 Sep	Switzerland	SNB rate decision, 09:30 CET / 08:30 BST	Hold expected, near zero	MEDIUM
Thu 24 Sep	Australia	Labour Force Survey (August), 11:30 AEST / 02:30 BST	n/a — consensus not confirmed via open sources	MEDIUM

Monday itself is thin. The week's genuine focal points are Wednesday's flash PMIs, the single biggest eurozone/UK/US data point of the week, and Thursday's Xi Jinping state visit to the US, the first since 2015, which carries real trade and Taiwan-related tail risk given reports Beijing could cancel the summit over new US arms sales to Taiwan. The SNB and Australian labour data both also land Thursday. Treat exact weekday alignment as indicative and re-confirm against a live economic calendar before trading around any single release.

11. CORPORATE EVENTS & EARNINGS (MONDAY 21 SEPTEMBER 2026 AND WEEK AHEAD)

COMPANY	MARKET	EVENT	TIME
No noteworthy earnings reports are scheduled for Monday 21 September per Earnings Whispers; the week's 24 confirmed reports are concentrated Tuesday and Wednesday.
AutoZone / THOR Industries / MillerKnoll	US	Earnings, before open	Tue 22 Sep
KB Home / Worthington Enterprises	US	Earnings, after close	Tue 22 Sep
General Mills / Paychex / Cintas / Cracker Barrel / Manchester United	US / UK-linked	Earnings, before open / morning	Wed 23 Sep
H.B. Fuller / Stitch Fix	US	Earnings, after close	Wed 23 Sep
Darden Restaurants (Olive Garden parent)	US	Fiscal 2027 Q1 earnings, before open	Thu 24 Sep

Monday's confirmed corporate slate is essentially empty. The bigger corporate story into the week is governance, not earnings: Warren Buffett's move to chairman emeritus at Berkshire Hathaway, effective this week, with son Howard Buffett now chairman. No confirmed European large-cap earnings or AGM could be sourced for Monday 21 September via open search. Recommend a live earnings-calendar check (Earnings Whispers, TradingView) for any Monday-specific European names not captured via open search.

12. STOCKS TO WATCH — MONDAY 21 SEPTEMBER

Frontline / Scorpio Tankers (NYSE) — Shipping	Frontline posted a record Q2 net profit of $659.2m and a special dividend after selling two VLCCs; its ordinary dividend yields roughly 23%. Elevated tanker rates persist on continued Strait of Hormuz disruption and rerouting. Watch for any read-through from Friday's fresh tanker attack.	Bullish momentum, headline-sensitive
American Airlines (NASDAQ: AAL) — Aviation	Shares rose roughly 2% Friday as easing oil offered short-term relief, but American has no fuel hedges and each one-cent rise in fuel price adds about $50m to its 2026 cost base; TTM net margin is a razor-thin 0.2%. Highly sensitive to any Monday move in Brent following the weekend's geopolitical headlines.	Two-sided, oil-price-sensitive
Lockheed Martin / BAE Systems / Hensoldt — Aerospace & Defense	Lockheed won a $1.21bn US Army contract for Precision Strike Missile production and guides to $77.5-80bn 2026 sales, yet the stock is down roughly 19% since the war began, reflecting a genuine tension between elevated order backlogs and war-fatigue/de-escalation risk. European peers BAE Systems and Hensoldt have historically outperformed on escalation days (up roughly 6% and 5% respectively in prior spikes).	Two-sided, conflict-trajectory dependent
Zijin Mining (HKEX/SSE) and gold/copper miners — Metals & Mining	Zijin guides to 2026 production of 105 tonnes of gold and 1.2m tonnes of copper, with internal price assumptions of $4,700/oz gold and $11,000/tonne copper, both above current spot. Gold (+1.00% Friday) and copper (+0.72% Friday, up roughly 45% year-on-year) both showed continued bullish momentum into the weekend.	Bullish, structurally supported
Chevron / ExxonMobil / Shell / BP — Energy	Brent eased to $103.87 Friday as Saudi Arabia's pipeline reroute partially offset the latest tanker attack, but oil remains well above $100 and the Hormuz risk premium is unresolved. Two-sided into Monday depending on any weekend escalation news.	Two-sided, event-risk
HSBC / Barclays / Deutsche Bank — Banks	Visible Alpha consensus estimates have been upgraded for HSBC, Deutsche Bank and Barclays on improved net-interest-income outlooks. This week's synchronised hawkish central-bank moves (Fed hike, hawkish BoE hold, BoJ hike) are a direct incremental tailwind for bank NII guidance into year-end.	Bullish, rate-hike tailwind
Volkswagen / Porsche / Mercedes-Benz — Autos	Led Friday's DAX decline (VW -5.97%, Porsche -5.19%, Mercedes -4.76%). Watch for either a Monday bounce or continuation of the selloff, and any specific company news driving the Friday move that was not captured via open search.	Bearish momentum into Monday
Berkshire Hathaway (NYSE: BRK.A/BRK.B) — Corporate governance event	Warren Buffett stepped down as chairman Friday after roughly six decades, becoming chairman emeritus; son Howard Buffett is the new chairman while Greg Abel continues as CEO. Watch for any Monday market reaction to the leadership transition, though no operational change is expected.	Event-risk, low expected magnitude

13. MACRO / CORPORATE / POLITICAL HIGHLIGHTS

MACRO

Fed hikes to 3.75-4.00%: first hike since 2023, unanimous 12-0 vote, with 16 of 18 officials seeing at least one more hike this year and year-end projections between 4.10% and 4.40%.

Bank of England holds at 3.75% on a hawkish 6-3 split: markets now see a hike as more likely than not at the November or December meeting.

Bank of Japan hikes to 1.25%: third increase in under a year, the fastest tightening pace since 1990, taking rates to their highest since 1995.

US 10-year Treasury yield crosses 5.00% for the first time this cycle, the single biggest cross-asset move of the week and the dominant input into Monday's risk pricing.

CORPORATE

Warren Buffett steps down as Berkshire Hathaway chairman after roughly six decades; son Howard Buffett becomes chairman while Greg Abel remains CEO.

Record US hyperscaler euro issuance: Amazon, Uber and four other US issuers priced euro or sterling bonds on a single record day (9 September); Alphabet, Amazon, Meta, Microsoft and Oracle now hold roughly €40bn of euro bonds outstanding between them, prompting ECB concern about crowding out European borrowers.

Frontline posted a record $659.2m Q2 profit and a special dividend after selling two VLCCs, underscoring continued strength in tanker economics tied to Hormuz-driven rerouting.

Volkswagen-led German auto selloff: VW, Porsche and Mercedes-Benz were the DAX's heaviest fallers Friday, each down 4.8-6.0%.

POLITICAL / GEOPOLITICAL

Strait of Hormuz war, Day 203: a second tanker was hit by a projectile Friday; President Trump said he is weighing a "big decision" on a major assault intended to "annihilate" the Iranian regime. The underlying US-Iran ceasefire framework remains only partially holding.

Saudi Arabia rerouted crude via a pipeline that bypasses the Strait of Hormuz, a direct and partially offsetting response to the shipping-attack risk, helping explain Friday's Brent pullback despite the fresh attack.

Xi Jinping's state visit to the US, beginning 24 September, is the week's other major geopolitical event, his first White House visit since 2015; reports suggest Beijing could cancel if Washington approves new Taiwan arms sales before the summit, a genuine tail risk for risk sentiment.

Synchronised central-bank tightening (Fed, hawkish BoE hold, BoJ) across three of the world's largest economies in a single week is itself a geopolitically-adjacent event, with the Iran war's energy-inflation shock a common thread across all three.

14. KEY THEMES — TOP 5 BY HORIZON

TODAY'S TOP 5 (MONDAY 21 SEPTEMBER)

1. Whether Friday's tanker attack reprices oil into Monday

Brent eased to $103.87 despite the attack, on Saudi rerouting; any weekend escalation changes that calculus quickly.

2. The US 10-year's first close above 5% this cycle

Monday is the first genuine market test of whether yields keep pushing higher after the Fed's hike.

3. European equities' worst week since July

Whether Friday's 1.4-1.6% regional selloff extends or reverses is the key European open question.

4. China's PBoC LPR decision (Sunday) into the Monday Asia open

Widely expected to hold for a 16th straight month; a surprise would be a significant risk event for Monday's Asian session.

5. Berkshire Hathaway's leadership transition

First trading session since Howard Buffett formally became chairman; watch for any share-price reaction.

THIS WEEK'S TOP 5

1. Xi Jinping's state visit to the US, from 24 September

First White House visit since 2015; genuine cancellation risk tied to Taiwan arms sales makes this a binary event for risk sentiment.

2. Wednesday's flash PMIs (Eurozone, UK, Germany, US)

The week's single biggest data point, testing growth resilience against the newly-hawkish rate backdrop.

3. SNB rate decision, Thursday 24 September

Expected hold near zero; any deviation would be a surprise given the SNB's traditionally cautious posture.

4. Strait of Hormuz conflict trajectory

Trump's "big decision" comment raises the stakes materially for the week; any US military escalation would be the dominant market event.

5. Euro DCM pipeline and hyperscaler crowding-out concern

Record US-issuer euro supply continues to test European corporate borrowers' funding costs; ECB has already flagged concern.

THIS MONTH'S TOP 5

1. A synchronised global hiking cycle: Fed, BoE (hawkish hold) and BoJ all move in the same week

A genuine regime shift from the rate-cut/hold narrative of prior years, with US yields now above 5%.

2. Strait of Hormuz war passes 200 days with no resolution

Trump's comments on a possible "big decision" signal the conflict could escalate further before the month ends.

3. Xi-Trump summit and US-China trade truce extension

Outcome will shape tariff, export-control and critical-minerals policy for the rest of the year.

4. Warren Buffett's exit from Berkshire's chairmanship

Symbolically closes a six-decade era; a watch item for Berkshire governance and capital-allocation continuity.

5. Euro corporate DCM record pace, led by US hyperscalers

ECB-flagged crowding-out risk for European borrowers is a structural theme to track through the rest of September.

15. KEY TRENDS TO WATCH

1 DAY

Confirmation of Monday's futures: no genuine pre-open levels exist yet at this Saturday writing time; check live futures shortly after the Sunday 18:00 ET US reopen and again at the European pre-open.

Any weekend Hormuz headline is the single biggest swing risk after Friday's fresh tanker attack and Trump's "big decision" comment.

China's PBoC LPR decision lands Sunday, just ahead of Monday's Asian open.

1 WEEK

Wednesday 23 Sep: Flash PMIs across the Eurozone, UK, Germany and US.

Thursday 24 Sep: Xi Jinping's state visit to the US begins; SNB rate decision; Australian labour force data.

Ongoing: Strait of Hormuz conflict trajectory following Friday's attack and Trump's escalation comments.

Corporate: a 24-company US earnings week, heaviest Tuesday and Wednesday.

1 MONTH

US 10-year yield above 5%: whether this proves durable or reverses is now the dominant rates question for October.

Ongoing: Strait of Hormuz war, now past 203 days, with Trump signalling the possibility of major escalation.

Xi-Trump summit outcome: shapes US-China trade and Taiwan-related risk into October.

Euro DCM: record hyperscaler-led issuance pace and ECB crowding-out concerns through the rest of September.

SOURCES

- Associated Press (via wusa9.com, KRMG) — official US index closes, 18 Sep 2026
- CNBC / Fox Business / Federal Reserve / Charles Schwab / Yahoo Finance — FOMC decision and vote, 16 Sep 2026
- BNN Bloomberg / Local10 / Cambridge Currencies — Bank of England decision, 17 Sep 2026
- FXStreet / FXEmpire — Bank of Japan hike and DXY moves, 18 Sep 2026
- Chaincatcher / Trading Economics — DAX, CAC 40, Euro Stoxx 50 closing levels, 18 Sep 2026
- Yahoo Finance / Sunday Guardian Live / KFGO / 24/7 Wall St. — FTSE 100 close and drivers, 18 Sep 2026
- MoneyAndBanking Magazine / Asia Business Daily / Seoul Economic Daily — Nikkei, Hang Seng, Shanghai Composite, Kospi closes, 18 Sep 2026
- Trading Economics — Brent, WTI, gold, natural gas, copper pricing, 18 Sep 2026
- CNBC — oil market context (Saudi rerouting), 18 Sep 2026
- Trading Economics — US 10-year Treasury and German 10-year Bund yields, 18 Sep 2026
- FXStreet — DXY, EUR/USD, GBP/USD, 18 Sep 2026
- GlobalSecurity.org / CBS News — Iran war and Strait of Hormuz updates, Day 203, 18 Sep 2026
- Bloomberg / CNBC / Washington Post / Axios — Warren Buffett Berkshire Hathaway chairman transition, 18 Sep 2026
- MarketBeat / Yahoo Finance — Frontline, Scorpio Tankers shipping-stock data

- Investing.com / ts2.tech — American Airlines fuel-cost exposure
- TheStreet / MarketScreener / Forbes — Lockheed Martin, defense-stock commentary
- Mining.com / Bloomberg — Zijin Mining production guidance and price assumptions
- S&P Global Market Intelligence / Investing.com — European bank NII guidance upgrades
- The DESK (fi-desk.com) / GlobalCapital / 9fin / Vantage Markets — euro corporate bond issuance and hyperscaler supply
- LSEG / Bloomberg Professional Services — iTraxx/CDX qualitative spread positioning
- Newsquawk / FXStreet / Investing Live / Business Standard — week-ahead calendar, Xi-Trump summit, SNB decision
- Australian Bureau of Statistics — Labour Force Survey release schedule
- Earnings Whispers / Kiplinger / 24/7 Wall St. — corporate earnings calendar, week of 21 Sep 2026

Weekend edition. Data collected automatically between approximately 06:30 and 07:45 BST on 19 September 2026 via open web search. Direct access to several primary sources (Bloomberg Professional, GlobalCapital, IFR, cbonds) was limited throughout this session; figures come largely from search-engine snippet summaries rather than direct page reads. No genuine Monday pre-open futures data exists at this writing time. FTSE 100's exact Friday closing level varied by 1.3%-1.5% across sources and is presented as a range; WTI's exact settlement level varied by roughly $1 across sources and is also presented as a range. Current-week absolute iTraxx Main, Crossover and CDX IG spread levels could not be sourced and are flagged n/a. Verify all figures against a live terminal before making any decision. This document is not investment advice.