2. IMPORTANT NEWS

Nvidia smashes Q2 FY27 estimates: revenue $96.2bn (+106% YoY), guides Q3 above consensus

CNBC / Benzinga / Motley Fool • Wed 26 Aug, after US close \(~21:30-22:30 BST\)

EPS \$2.22 vs ~\$2.09 est.; gross margin held at 75%. Guided Q3 revenue to \$108bn ( $\pm 2\%$ ) vs \$104.2bn consensus. AWS to buy 2 million Nvidia GPUs (Vera/Rubin). Shares +4% to +4.7% after-hours. Sets a bullish tone for European AI/semi names (ASML, Infineon, STMicroelectronics, BE Semiconductor) into today's open — though note NVDA has fallen after 6 of its last 8 earnings prints despite beats, so the reaction is not guaranteed one-way.

---

US July PCE hotter than expected, muddies the picture into Fed Chair Warsh's first Jackson Hole

Charles Schwab / Invezz • Wed 26 Aug, ~13:30 BST

Headline PCE +0.2% m/m / +3.7% y/y (above consensus); core +0.2% m/m / +3.3% y/y (in line). One tracker put September rate-hike odds at ~38-44%, while a separate source still had markets pricing ~85% odds of a September cut — genuinely conflicting signals this morning. Treat the rate-path call as unresolved until Kevin Warsh's keynote Friday. Gold and Treasuries were volatile on the print; dollar firmed.

---

Oil falls for a 4th straight session on Iran-Oman Hormuz corridor talks

CNBC / Al Jazeera / Trading Economics • Wed 26 - Thu 27 Aug

Brent down toward ~$87/bbl (~-1%) on reports Iran and Oman are discussing a temporary joint maritime corridor through the Strait of Hormuz, easing supply-risk premium built up after the US-Iran ceasefire deadline lapsed (17 Aug) and a tanker attack off Oman (24 Aug). BP and Shell both fell in London Wednesday (BP -2%+, Shell -1.4%). Relief for consumer/industrial names, headwind for energy majors.

Bank of Korea delivers rare back-to-back rate hike, +25bp to 3.00%

CNBC / Bloomberg • Thu 27 Aug, Asia session

6-1 vote; second consecutive hike since BoK resumed tightening in July for the first time since 2022, citing above-target core inflation and stronger growth. Signals a broadening global tightening pivot alongside Fed/ECB repricing. KRW and Kospi both firmed on the day.

---

French political/fiscal risk keeps OAT-Bund spread elevated near 15-year wides

Bloomberg / Funds Europe • ongoing into Thu 27 Aug

French 10-year OAT yield ~4.1%+ (highest since 2008), OAT-Bund spread ~82-84bp, amid budget/political instability under PM Lecornu's minority government ahead of the 2026 fiscal fight. French banks (BNP Paribas, Cr dit Agricole, Soci t  G n rale) have been under pressure. Cross-current: EUR/USD nonetheless firm near 1.166-1.167 on hawkish-ECB repricing.

3. EUROPEAN FUTURES (PRE-OPEN)

| CONTRACT                        | INDICATED MOVE                      | COLLECTION TIME | SOURCE           |
|---------------------------------|-------------------------------------|-----------------|------------------|
| Euro Stoxx 50 futures           | +0.32%                              | ~06:30 BST      | First Squawk     |
| DAX futures                     | +0.27%                              | ~06:30 BST      | First Squawk     |
| CAC 40 futures                  | +0.24%                              | ~06:30 BST      | First Squawk     |
| FTSE 100 futures                | +0.2%                               | ~06:30 BST      | First Squawk     |
| US context — pre-market futures |                                     |                 |                  |
| S&P 500 e-mini                  | +0.4% to +1% (range across sources) | pre-London-open | Bloomberg / CNBC |
| Nasdaq-100 e-mini               | +0.8%                               | pre-London-open | Bloomberg        |

Futures indications are broadly positive, driven by Nvidia's blowout Q2 report and bullish FY2028 sales commentary. Exact index point levels for the European contracts were not reliably sourced this morning — only percentage indications from newswire snapshots. Caution: a later intraday read (MarketScreener) shows European cash indices reversing to slightly negative roughly an hour after the open on Jackson Hole caution, with AI-linked names giving back gains (Infineon/Siemens Energy ~−3%, ASML ~−1%) — treat the positive pre-open bias as fragile and two-sided into the cash session.

4. YESTERDAY'S CLOSURES — EUROPEAN INDICES (WED 26 AUG 2026)

| INDEX         | CLOSE                     | CHANGE                        |
|---------------|---------------------------|-------------------------------|
| FTSE 100      | 10,878.12                 | −0.10%                        |
| Euro Stoxx 50 | n/a (level)               | ~+0.6% (afternoon indicative) |
| DAX 40        | n/a (level)               | +0.68%                        |
| CAC 40        | n/a — conflicting sources | n/a — conflicting sources     |

Flag: CAC 40 sources conflict — one wire gives a close of 8,439.20 (−0.16%), another describes an intraday +0.49% advance led by ArcelorMittal/Kering/Hermès with Capgemini/TotalEnergies lagging. Not resolved reliably — verify against Euronext before relying on it. DAX and Euro Stoxx 50 exact closing point levels also could not be sourced; only percentage changes confirmed.

FTSE 100 ended a six-session winning streak, dragged by oil majors (BP, Shell) as Brent fell for a third straight session. DAX firmer (+0.68%); Euro Stoxx 50 also higher on the afternoon read as oil weakness and pre-Nvidia positioning supported risk appetite across the continent.

5. US MARKETS — YESTERDAY'S SESSION (WED 26 AUG 2026)

| INDEX                        | CLOSE     | CHANGE                   | NOTE                                                                                                      |
|------------------------------|-----------|--------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| S&P 500                      | ~7,676    | +0.3% (essentially flat) | Two sources cross-referenced                                                                              |
| Dow Jones Industrial Average | 53,463.88 | −0.21%                   | Cross-referenced (CNBC/Yahoo)                                                                             |
| Nasdaq Composite             | 26,130.20 | −0.08%                   | Conflicting: one source reports +0.7% to 26,151.30 — primary figure used has 2 independent corroborations |

Mixed/flat, wait-and-see session as investors held positions ahead of Nvidia's (plus CrowdStrike, Salesforce) earnings after the bell, and digested a stickier-than-hoped PCE inflation print ahead of Fed Chair Kevin Warsh's Friday Jackson Hole address. Sector leadership is disputed between sources this morning — one report has Technology and Communication Services leading (6 of 11 sectors positive), another has Energy and Industrials as the standout gainers with bonds/metals/housing weaker. Treat specific sector claims with caution pending a cleaner source. Key takeaway: the real catalyst was always going to land after the close — and it did, in the form of Nvidia's beat-and-raise.

6. ASIAN MARKETS — OVERNIGHT SESSION (THU 27 AUG 2026)

| INDEX              | LEVEL                    | CHANGE                                                |
|--------------------|--------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------|
| Nikkei 225         | ~66,258                  | +0.32%                                                |
| Hang Seng          | ~25,791 (Wed close base) | −0.22% (Thu session, exact close n/a)                 |
| Shanghai Composite | ~3,905 (intraday)        | n/a vs Wed close (opened flat)                        |
| Kospi              | 6,808.21                 | +0.97% (one source cites +1.83% for the same session) |

Broadly positive/mixed-higher session, led by South Korea — the Bank of Korea's back-to-back hike did not dent risk appetite, with Kospi and Kosdaq both firmer on Nvidia-driven AI optimism. Japan modestly higher (Topix +0.27%). Hong Kong and Australia softer (ASX 200 −0.93%), suggesting the Nvidia bounce was not universal. Main driver across the region: risk-on reaction to Nvidia's earnings beat and bullish AI capex outlook, tempered by caution into Jackson Hole.

7. COMMODITIES

| COMMODITY                          | LEVEL  | CHANGE                                                                         | TIME   |
|------------------------------------|--------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------|
| Brent (ICE, USD/bbl)               | 86.93  | −1.03%                                                                         | Thu AM |
| WTI (NYMEX, USD/bbl)               | ~80-81 | ~−1.9% (range across sources)                                                  | Thu AM |
| Gold (XAU/USD, USD/oz)             | ~4,593 | ~+1.6% vs prior close ~4,519 (unusually large move — flagged for verification) | Thu AM |
| Natural gas (Henry Hub, USD/MMBtu) | 2.84   | +2.37%                                                                         | Wed    |
| Natural gas (TTF, EUR/MWh)         | 68.57  | +0.36% vs 68.32 prior close                                                    | Thu AM |
| Copper (COMEX, USD/lb)             | 6.75   | +0.6% (up ~52.75% YoY)                                                         | Wed    |

Oil extends its slide on Hormuz corridor diplomacy, a genuine relief valve for inflation and industrial input costs after weeks of Iran-driven risk premium. Copper's year-on-year rally (~53%) is striking — consistent with separate reporting of copper hitting a record above $14,400/tonne on US tariff front-running and supply losses in Indonesia, DRC and Chile, corroborating the COMEX price level here. Gold's implied one-day move (~+1.6%) is large enough to warrant a second check against a live terminal before relying on it for trading decisions; the broader context is a strong 2026 bull run (2026 ATH of $5,602.23 hit 29 Jan) with a pullback and partial bounce around the hot PCE print.

8. RATES & FX

| INSTRUMENT          | LEVEL      | NOTE                                                       |
|---------------------|------------|------------------------------------------------------------|
| US 10-year Treasury | 4.65%      | Easing from a 20-month high of 4.75% (21 Aug)              |
| German 10-year Bund | ~3.20%     | Near a 15-year high of 3.275% touched last week            |
| EUR/USD             | ~1.1670    | −0.09%, down from a weekly high of 1.17065 (20 Aug) |
| GBP/USD             | ~1.3642    | Holding near its strongest level since mid-February        |
| DXY (Dollar Index)  | ~99.0–99.2 | Range across sources (98.5–99.2 depending on timestamp)    |

US 10Y yields have eased off their 20-month high as softer energy prices calm near-term inflation nerves, even as the PCE print reopened a hike debate. Bund yields remain near 15-year highs on ECB rate-path uncertainty tied in part to Middle East-driven energy costs. EUR/USD is holding up well despite French political risk, supported by hawkish-ECB repricing; GBP/USD firm near multi-month highs on reported US Treasury plans to lean into longer-dated bond issuance, pressuring the dollar broadly.

No USD-denominated European-issuer deals identified for 26 Aug. Full order-book detail and exact IPT levels sit behind IFR/GlobalCapital/Bloomberg paywalls not accessible this session.

PIPELINE / EXPECTED TODAY & THIS WEEK

No specific issuer confirmed as mandated for Thursday 27 Aug itself (n/a). Broader context: GlobalCapital (20 Aug) reports the euro corporate market "readies for an issuance burst," with treasurers said to want to price ahead of autumn risk events (US mid-terms in November, French 2026 political calendar). The week of 17-21 Aug saw €38.3bn priced — the busiest post-summer restart on record — including Finland's €4bn 7-year sovereign (3.300% coupon), a Sika €1bn hybrid, and Mizuho EUR issuance. Philips priced a €650m EU Green Bond on 24 Aug (4.0% coupon, 2.7x covered) — the first EU Green Bond Standard deal in healthcare.

Real-time spread levels sit behind Bloomberg/Refinitiv terminals not accessible this session — do not treat the tightening-trend framing as a precise today-figure.

COMMENTARY

Primary window reads as open and active: three IG/covered/infrastructure deals priced Wednesday across industrials-adjacent, transport and financials names, with solid if not blow-out demand (books 2.6x-2.7x covered). Issuers appear to be racing to front-load funding before an autumn window complicated by French political risk and US mid-terms. Skew toward industrials, transport and financials this week; no energy-sector euro deal identified. One caution flag from a referenced GlobalCapital survey: roughly three-quarters of respondents expect spreads to widen over the course of 2026 versus only 8% expecting further tightening — the market does not see today's tight, open window as durable.

10. ECONOMIC CALENDAR — THURSDAY 27 AUGUST 2026

| TIME (BST) | ZONE     | INDICATOR                                         | CONSENSUS                             | IMPORTANCE |
|------------|----------|---------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------|------------|
| ~09:00     | Eurozone | M3 money supply, July                             | n/a — time indicative                 | MEDIUM     |
| ~09:50     | UK       | BoE Governor Bailey keynote, LSE TRIUM conference | n/a — single-sourced, time indicative | HIGH       |
| 13:30      | US       | Initial jobless claims (wk ending 22 Aug)         | n/a (prior wk: 206k vs 210k est.)     | HIGH       |
| 13:30      | US       | Wholesale inventories, July (prelim)              | n/a                                   | MEDIUM     |
| 13:30      | Canada   | Current account, Q2                               | n/a                                   | LOW        |

Confirmed NOT scheduled today (to avoid confusion with conflicting aggregator counts): Eurozone GDP second estimate (next due 7 Sep), US GDP second estimate and US PCE (both already released 26 Aug), and Fed Chair Warsh's Jackson Hole keynote (tomorrow, Fri 28 Aug). Today's highest-conviction catalyst is the BoE Governor's speech, given ongoing UK rate-path uncertainty; US jobless claims remain the standard high-importance US print.

11. CORPORATE EVENTS & EARNINGS

| COMPANY                                                                                                                                | EXCHANGE      | EVENT          | TIME                               |

| Royal Bank of Canada, Toronto-Dominion Bank                                                                                            | TSX           | Earnings       | n/a (typically pre-market Toronto) |

European corporate calendar for today: n/a — Q2 earnings season has largely concluded by late August and no reliably dated FTSE 100/DAX/CAC 40/Stoxx 600 report or AGM for 27 Aug could be confirmed this morning. All the confirmed items above land after tonight's US close, so they are a factor for tomorrow's session rather than today's European open. Recommend a manual check of the LSE RNS feed and Deutsche Börse/Euronext calendars if a European-specific item is required.

12. STOCKS TO WATCH

|-------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------|
| Nvidia (NVDA) — Nasdaq             | Q2 FY27 revenue $96.2bn (+106% YoY) beat, Q3 guide $108bn vs $104.2bn consensus, AWS to buy 2m GPUs. +4-4.7% after-hours. Note: stock has fallen after 6 of its last 8 earnings beats — two-sided risk.               | Bullish, two-sided risk   |
| ASML / BESI / Infineon / STMicro   | Direct AI-supply-chain read-through from Nvidia's beat. Caution: one intraday report has Infineon/Siemens Energy ~-3% and ASML ~-1% later in the session on Jackson Hole-driven profit-taking.                           | Bullish open, fade risk   |
| easyJet (EZJ) — LSE                | Apollo take-private at £7.15/share (~81% premium to pre-bid). Scheme-document deadline pushed back for "constructive engagement" with aviation regulators — signals friction.                                            | Neutral / deal-risk watch |
| CK Hutchison / Hapag-Lloyd         | CK Hutchison's Panama unit filed $1.5bn+ arbitration vs Panama and separate London arbitration vs Maersk over the seized Balboa/Cristobal port concessions. Hapag-Lloyd Q2 profit -73% on ~$600m Hormuz-related costs. | Bearish / dispute risk    |
| Star Bulk Carriers (SBLK) — Nasdaq | Dry-bulk value play: forward P/E ~6.5x, 12.9% dividend yield, Piotroski Score 9.                                                                                                                                         | Bullish / value           |
| Antofagasta / Glencore / Rio Tinto | Copper at a record above $14,400/tonne on US tariff front-running and ~338kt of H1 supply losses (Indonesia, DRC, Chile).                                                                                               | Bullish miners            |
| Rheinmetall (RHM) — Frankfurt      | Consolidating €1,150-1,200+ after strong Q2 (revenue €3.29bn, order backlog >€80bn on €11.37bn of new contracts). Analyst targets widely dispersed (€1,350-€2,300).                                                      | Bullish, volatile         |
| Ambu A/S (AMBU-B) — Copenhagen     | Shares fell >17% Wednesday after cutting full-year organic revenue growth guidance.                                                                                                                                      | Bearish                   |
| Sage Group (SGE) — LSE             | Fell ~3.85% Wednesday, among the FTSE's biggest fallers, after Intuit's cautious outlook revived AI-disruption fears for enterprise software.                                                                            | Bearish                   |

13. MACRO / CORPORATE / POLITICAL HIGHLIGHTS

MACRO

Fed rate path genuinely unresolved into Jackson Hole: hot July PCE (+3.7% y/y headline) revived rate-hike chatter (one tracker: ~38-44% odds of a September hike) even as another source still shows markets pricing ~85% odds of a cut. Fed Chair Kevin Warsh (in the role since ~22 May 2026) gives his first policy keynote Friday — the resolution point.

Eurozone inflation above target, growth downgraded: July HICP accelerated to 2.9% (from 2.8% June). ECB held rates 23 July (deposit 2.25%, refi 2.40%, marginal lending 2.65%); staff project ~3.0% average 2026 inflation partly on Middle East-driven energy costs. IMF/ECB have cut 2026 euro-area growth projections to 0.9-1.1%.

Bank of Korea back-to-back hike: +25bp to 3.00% (6-1 vote), second straight since resuming tightening in July — part of a broader global tightening-pivot narrative this week.

CORPORATE

Nvidia beat-and-raise is the dominant catalyst into today's European open, with direct read-through to ASML, Infineon, STMicro, BESl and ARM.

European bank Q2 season wrapped with sector net profit +18% YoY; ABN AMRO raised its net-interest-income guidance, continuing the NII-driven re-rating theme even as Citi flags "limited upside" from current overbought levels.

Shipping sector bifurcation: Maersk raised FY guidance twice in 2026 (Q2 EBITDA $3.0bn vs $2.12bn consensus) while Hapag-Lloyd's profit fell 73% on Hormuz-related costs — same sector, opposite trajectories.

Primary bond market: Sodexo, Cofiroute and Commerzbank priced EUR/covered deals Wednesday; broader market gearing for an autumn "issuance burst" per GlobalCapital.

POLITICAL / GEOPOLITICAL

Strait of Hormuz de-escalation track: Iran-Oman talks on a temporary shipping corridor are easing oil's supply-risk premium, reversing some of the risk built up earlier in the week around Ukraine-escalation concerns.

US-Canada tariff cliff-edge: Trump postponed 50% retaliatory tariffs on ~$20bn of Canadian imports by 3 days; tariffs activate this weekend absent a deal.

US-China: Washington reportedly preparing a 7.5% tariff on Chinese goods over "overcapacity," which would push the effective China tariff rate to ~20%, ahead of a planned Xi-Trump summit next month.

Russia-Ukraine war continues: Ukraine struck Lukoil's Nizhny Novgorod refinery (Russia's 4th-largest) on 26 Aug; Russia hit Kherson's CHP plant and other civilian infrastructure. No ceasefire signal.

France: OAT-Bund spread elevated (~82-84bp) on political/fiscal risk under PM Lecornu's minority government ahead of the 2026 budget fight.

14. KEY THEMES — TOP 5 BY HORIZON

TODAY'S TOP 5

1. Nvidia earnings aftershock

Sets the tone for European tech/chip names at the open, though later-session profit-taking risk has been flagged in AI-linked names.

2. Oil's 4th-day slide

Brent ~$87 on Hormuz corridor talks; relief for consumers/industrials, headwind for energy majors.

3. Fed rate-path confusion into Jackson Hole

Hot PCE vs conflicting cut/hike odds; Warsh's Friday keynote is the key resolution point.

4. Eurozone M3 + BoE Bailey speech

Gauge lending conditions and BoE tone ahead of September policy meetings.

5. Canada tariff deadline

50% US tariffs on ~$20bn of Canadian goods activate this weekend absent a deal.

THIS WEEK'S TOP 5

1. Nvidia's two-day ripple

Global and European tech sentiment tracking the Q2 report through the rest of the week.

2. Jackson Hole Symposium (27-29 Aug)

Climaxes in Fed Chair Warsh's first policy keynote as chair on Friday.

3. easyJet/Apollo takeover process

Extended shareholder-document deadline signals regulatory friction; watch for resolution.

4. US-Canada tariff cliff-edge

Effectively this weekend — deal or 50% tariffs take effect.

5. European bond "issuance burst"

Sodexo/Cofiroute/Commerzbank test appetite ahead of a seasonally busy autumn window.

THIS MONTH'S TOP 5

1. Fed policy transition under Warsh

Jackson Hole sets the tone for the September FOMC.

2. Strait of Hormuz de-escalation track

Could materially reprice the oil risk premium in either direction.

3. Xi-Trump summit and China tariff decision

Proposed 7.5% "overcapacity" tariff would lift the effective China rate to ~20%.

4. Copper/mining supply squeeze

Record prices (>$14,400/t) on tariff front-running and mine outages.

5. ECB policy setup for September

Eurozone inflation at 2.9% against a growth downgrade to 0.9-1.1% for 2026.

15. KEY TRENDS TO WATCH

1 DAY

Nvidia-driven open: Chip/AI names in focus, two-sided risk into the cash session.

Oil weakness: Pressuring energy majors, relief for consumers/industrials.

Bank technicals: Sector flagged as overbought (Citi) despite +18% YoY profit growth.

Scattered earnings reactions: ~50 European trading updates reported this week as single-stock catalysts.

1 WEEK

Jackson Hole through 29 Aug: Culminates in Warsh's Friday keynote — the week's dominant rates catalyst.

US-Canada tariff deadline: Effectively this weekend.

easyJet-Apollo deal progress: Regulatory engagement extension to watch.

Tail of Q2 European earnings season.

1 MONTH

September FOMC and ECB meetings: Rate-path clarity expected after Jackson Hole.

Xi-Trump summit and China tariff decision.

Hormuz corridor negotiations: Key oil-price swing factor.

Ukraine war escalation risk; mining consolidation chatter; Q3 earnings season kickoff into October.
