

MORNING BRIEFING — MONDAY 7 SEPTEMBER 2026

Compiled Sunday 6 September 2026, ahead of Monday's European pre-open • Reference timezone: Europe/London • All levels are last verifiable close/print at time of research (see per-block timestamps)

Scheduling note: this run fired on Sunday 6 September, a non-trading day. European cash markets were closed and Monday's Asian/European pre-open sessions had not yet started at compilation time. This edition is built as a Monday 7 September pre-open briefing: "yesterday's close" refers to Friday 4 September (last session before the weekend), and "today" refers to Monday 7 September. US stock and bond markets are closed Monday 7 September for Labor Day — no US cash session, thin/no futures context, and no US earnings that day.

2. IMPORTANT NEWS

US August payrolls shock to the upside: +162k vs +53k expected, unemployment steady at 4.1%

TheStreet / CNBC • Friday 4 September, US session

Triggered a broad Wall Street selloff Friday as it raised the odds of a Fed hike at the 15-16 September FOMC. Treasury yields rose (2Y hit its highest since January 2025), the dollar strengthened and gold fell. Sets a risk-off tone into the new week.

Fed Chair Kevin Warsh says inflation trends have "not meaningfully improved," Fed has "work to do"

CNBC • comments around 31 August, ahead of the 15-16 September FOMC

Markets are pricing roughly a 66% probability of a 25bp hike at the September meeting, per Fed funds futures cited by CNBC. Hawkish repricing is the dominant rates narrative heading into next week's decision.

Trump administration moves toward a new ~7.5% tariff on China for "flooding" global markets with cheap goods

AP via local10.com • late August, still the operative trade-policy backdrop

Comes on top of 10-12.5% tariffs announced last month on 60 economies. Officials reportedly believe this level would not derail the year-long US-China trade truce or the Trump-Xi meeting expected late September. Binary risk for industrials, autos and tech supply chains.

European equities set for a cautious, slightly lower open Monday

Reuters \(via MarketScreener\) • week-ahead preview

Futures point to a soft open following Friday's Wall Street pullback and a mixed Asian session. Reuters flags September's seasonal reputation for higher US equity risk aversion and rising global bond yields on debt-sustainability and Middle East concerns.

Gold slid roughly 2% to near $4,380/oz Friday as the dollar rallied on the hot jobs print

Rio Times Online • Friday 4 September

Repricing of Fed-hike odds hit havens broadly; silver and other precious metals also came under pressure into the weekend.

3. EUROPEAN FUTURES (PRE-OPEN, MONDAY 7 SEPTEMBER)

CONTRACT	LEVEL	INDICATIVE MOVE	COLLECTION TIME / SOURCE
Euro Stoxx 50 futures	n/a	~ -0.2% indicated	Reuters week-ahead preview, pre-weekend
DAX futures	n/a	~ -0.2% indicated	Reuters week-ahead preview, pre-weekend
CAC 40 futures	n/a	<-0.1% indicated	Reuters week-ahead preview, pre-weekend
FTSE 100 futures	n/a	n/a — no reliable indication sourced	—
US futures context
S&P 500 / Nasdaq / Dow e-mini	n/a	n/a	US markets closed Monday 7 Sept (Labor Day) — no reliable pre-open quote sourced Directional indications only — no confirmed weekend futures print was available via public search at compilation time (Sunday). European contracts typically re-open Sunday evening (Eurex); levels should be re-checked at the desk before relying on this section. With the US closed for Labor Day, Monday's European session should see below-average volume and limited cross-asset read-through from US futures.

4. YESTERDAY'S CLOSES — EUROPEAN INDICES (FRIDAY 4 SEPTEMBER 2026)

INDEX	CLOSE	CHANGE
Euro Stoxx 50	6,396	+0.2%
DAX 40	26,046.40	+0.17%
CAC 40	8,278.77	-0.09%
FTSE 100	~10,829	~-0.02% (essentially flat)

Mixed, low-conviction session. DAX and Euro Stoxx 50 edged higher; CAC 40 underperformed, in keeping with the French political-uncertainty overhang flagged by Reuters ahead of the 2027 presidential election. FTSE 100 was essentially unchanged. Note: sources show minor discrepancies on the exact FTSE print (10,828-10,831); treated here as flat.

5. US MARKETS — FRIDAY 4 SEPTEMBER 2026 SESSION

INDEX	CLOSE	CHANGE	NOTE
S&P 500	7,718.60	−0.38%	—
Dow Jones Industrial Average	53,414.25	−271.86 pts / −0.51%	—
Nasdaq Composite	26,506.99	−0.29%	—

Broad-based decline as the hot August payrolls print (+162k vs +53k consensus) lifted Treasury yields and raised the odds of a 25bp hike at the 15-16 September FOMC. Trump publicly praised the jobs number while separately pressing the Fed to cut rates. Sector-level leaders/laggards for the session were not confirmed via public sources — treat as n/a rather than inferred. Copper and broader metals were reported under pressure from the same rate-hike repricing.

Note: US markets are closed Monday 7 September for Labor Day — no cash session, no scheduled earnings.

6. ASIAN MARKETS — LAST AVAILABLE SESSION (FRIDAY 4 SEPTEMBER 2026)

INDEX	CLOSE	CHANGE
Nikkei 225	65,020.94	+1.3%
Hang Seng	25,658.73	+1.8%
Shanghai Composite	3,921.40	−0.5%
Kospi	6,690.72	+1.7%

Monday's actual overnight/Asian session (ahead of European open) is n/a — it had not started at the time this briefing was compiled (Sunday). The table above is the last confirmed session, Friday 4 September, shown for context: broadly positive, led by a tech rally spillover from Thursday's Wall Street gains, with Shanghai the laggard. Re-check Monday's actual Asian close before relying on this for the European open.

7. COMMODITIES

COMMODITY	LEVEL	CHANGE	AS OF
Brent (ICE, USD/bbl)	96.28	+0.80%	Fri 4 Sept close
WTI (NYMEX, USD/bbl)	91.48	+0.20%	Fri 4 Sept close
Gold (XAU/USD, USD/oz)	~4,380	~-2%	Fri 4 Sept
Natural gas (Henry Hub, USD/MMBtu)	n/a	n/a	No reliable Sept 4 spot print sourced (Sept-26 contract last seen ~2.91 at Aug 27 expiry)
Natural gas (TTF, EUR/MWh)	n/a	n/a	Not sourced
Copper (COMEX, USD/lb)	~6.60	~flat	Fri 4 Sept

Oil firmed slightly into the weekend. Gold's ~2% drop was the standout move, driven by dollar strength on the hot jobs data and rising Fed-hike odds. Copper held roughly flat: strong US jobs data and higher rate expectations are a headwind, offset by steady Chinese infrastructure demand. Natural gas prints for 4 September were not reliably sourced — treat as n/a.

8. RATES & FX

INSTRUMENT	LEVEL	CHANGE	AS OF
US 10Y Treasury	4.79%	+~3bp	Fri 4 Sept
German 10Y Bund	~3.35%	stabilised	Fri 4 Sept
EUR/USD	1.1610	-0.10%	Fri 4 Sept
GBP/USD	~1.35	n/a (single low-confidence source)	Fri 4 Sept, approx.
DXY (Dollar Index)	99.18	n/a	Fri 4 Sept

Yields moved higher across the curve after Friday's payrolls beat, cementing a hawkish repricing into the 15-16 September FOMC (~66% probability of a 25bp hike per futures-implied pricing). The dollar firmed broadly (DXY ~99.2, EUR/USD softer at 1.1610). The US 10Y/Bund spread remains wide, reflecting the transatlantic policy divergence between a hawkish Fed and a more settled ECB.

9. DCM — PRIMARY BOND MARKET

YESTERDAY'S ISSUANCES (FRIDAY 4 SEPTEMBER 2026)

ISSUER	CURRENCY	SIZE	MATURITY	COUPON/SPREAD	NOTES
n/a	n/a	n/a	n/a	n/a	No specific IG/HY/SSA/financials pricing for 4 Sept could be reliably confirmed via public search. Bloomberg/IFR/GlobalCapital terminal access required for deal-level detail.

PIPELINE / EXPECTED TODAY & THIS WEEK

Public sources point to September historically bringing a wave of new corporate bond supply (The DESK: "September explodes with new corporate bonds" — headline only, full content not accessible). GlobalCapital separately flags euro IG corporate new-issue premiums (NIPs) climbing "as books thin," consistent with softer investor demand late in the week. No specific mandated deals for Monday 7 September or this week were confirmed via public search — treat pipeline detail as n/a pending desk-level access.

KEY SPREADS

INDEX	LEVEL (BP)	MOVE / DIRECTION
iTraxx Europe Main 5Y	n/a	No current print sourced
iTraxx Europe Crossover 5Y	n/a	Only stale reference found: ~318bp mid-May 2026 (tightened from 410bp Oct 2025) — not usable as current level
CDX IG 5Y (USD)	n/a	No current print sourced
Average EUR corporate IG spread	n/a	No current print sourced

COMMENTARY

Public, non-terminal sources do not carry real-time iTraxx/CDX levels or deal-level EUR primary data; this section is materially data-light today and should not be relied on for trading decisions. Directionally, rising US and German yields plus a "books thinning" signal into the weekend point to a slightly more cautious primary tone than earlier in the summer, with issuers likely to favour early-week windows before Thursday's ECB meeting and Friday's US CPI. Big-tech/hyperscaler EUR IG issuance remains a live theme per the ECB's own commentary on US hyperscalers funding capex in the euro market.

10. ECONOMIC CALENDAR — MONDAY 7 SEPTEMBER & WEEK AHEAD

LONDON TIME	ZONE	INDICATOR	CONSENSUS	IMPORTANCE
n/a (exact time not confirmed)	Eurozone	Q2 GDP, trimmed estimate	n/a	MEDIUM
US stock and bond markets closed — Labor Day holiday. No US releases.
Later this week
n/a	US	Tue 8 Sept: Consumer Credit (Jul)	n/a	MEDIUM
n/a	Eurozone	Thu 10 Sept: ECB rate decision	n/a	HIGH
n/a	US	Thu 10 Sept: PPI (Aug), Existing Home Sales (Aug), Wholesale Inventories (Jul)	n/a	MEDIUM
n/a	US	Fri 11 Sept: CPI & core CPI (Aug)	n/a	HIGH
n/a	US	Fri 11 Sept: U. of Michigan consumer sentiment (Sept)	n/a	MEDIUM
n/a	UK	Fri 11 Sept: Industrial Production & Trade Balance (Jul)	n/a	MEDIUM

Monday itself is quiet: only the Eurozone Q2 GDP trimmed estimate, with the US shut for Labor Day. The week's real catalysts are Thursday's ECB decision and Friday's US CPI, both landing ahead of the Fed's own 15-16 September decision the following week. Exact London release times for several items were not confirmed via public sources and are marked n/a — verify against Eurostat/BLS calendars before the open.

11. CORPORATE EVENTS & EARNINGS

COMPANY	MARKET	EVENT	DATE
No European large-cap earnings or AGMs confirmed for Monday 7 September via public search.
Casey's General Stores (CASY)	Nasdaq	Earnings	Tue 8 Sept
Chewy (CHWY)	NYSE	Earnings	Wed 9 Sept
Broadcom (AVGO)	Nasdaq	Earnings — closely watched AI-capex bellwether	This week (day n/a — sources conflict on exact day)
Oracle (ORCL), Macy's (M), Adobe (ADBE)	US	Earnings	Thu 10 Sept
Kroger (KR)	NYSE	Earnings	Fri 11 Sept

Monday is a dead day for corporate news given the US holiday. Broadcom's report is the standout event this week as a read on AI-related capex demand; exact reporting day was inconsistently reported across sources and should be confirmed before positioning around it.

12. STOCKS TO WATCH

Boeing (BA) — NYSE	Recently upgraded to Buy at Argus (exact date not confirmed). Aerospace sector remains volatile but this is a positive broker signal.	Bullish
AeroVironment (AVAV) — Nasdaq	Named a highest-conviction pick by KeyBanc within its aerospace/defense/space coverage, citing industry-leading margins and DoD relationships.	Bullish
Honeywell Aerospace — newly independent listing	Now trading as a standalone public company following separation from Honeywell; supplies engines, avionics and connectivity to military/commercial aircraft. Watch early price discovery.	Watch / price discovery
Capricorn Energy (CNE) — LSE	DNO has agreed a $396m takeover of Capricorn Energy. M&A-driven; watch for deal-completion newsflow and any competing bids.	Bullish (deal)
Nvidia (NVDA) / MediaTek — Nasdaq / TWSE	Nvidia is investing $3.5bn in MediaTek. Read-through for the wider semiconductor/AI supply chain, including European equipment names.	Bullish (sector)
Metals & Mining / copper names — broad	Copper held roughly flat into the weekend: hot US jobs data and higher rate-hike odds are a headwind, offset by steady Chinese infrastructure demand. No single-name catalyst confirmed for Monday.	Neutral / mixed
European banks — sector	Rising US and German yields (10Y 4.79% / Bund ~3.35%) are broadly supportive of net interest income. No specific single-name news catalyst confirmed for Monday; flagged as a rates-driven sector to watch, not a stock-specific call.	Modestly supportive (rates)

13. MACRO / CORPORATE / POLITICAL HIGHLIGHTS

MACRO

Hot US jobs report reshapes Fed odds: August payrolls +162k vs +53k expected, unemployment steady at 4.1%. Markets now price ~66% odds of a 25bp hike at the 15-16 September FOMC.

Warsh turns more hawkish in tone: says inflation trends have "not meaningfully improved" and the Fed has "work to do," pushing back against hopes of near-term easing.

Global yields grinding higher: Reuters cites debt-sustainability concerns and renewed Middle East tensions as background drivers of the rise in bond yields into the new week.

French political uncertainty: flagged as a live risk for French assets less than seven months ahead of the 2027 presidential election.

CORPORATE

Nvidia — $3.5bn MediaTek investment: extends Nvidia's reach into the Taiwanese semiconductor ecosystem; read-through for the broader AI supply chain.

DNO / Capricorn Energy: $396m takeover agreed, adding to a busy year for European energy-sector M&A.

Honeywell Aerospace spin-off: now trading independently, a notable structural event for the aerospace/defense supply chain.

Euro IG primary softening slightly: GlobalCapital reports new-issue premiums climbing as order books thin — a signal of somewhat less aggressive investor demand into the new week.

POLITICAL / GEOPOLITICAL

Trump-Xi summit expected late September: a new ~7.5% China tariff is reportedly being weighed by the Trump administration, on top of last month's 10-12.5% tariffs on 60 economies; officials believe it would not derail the planned summit or the existing trade truce.

Trump vs. Fed: the president praised the strong jobs number while separately pressing the Fed to cut rates — a tension likely to persist into the September FOMC.

Middle East tensions: cited by Reuters as a contributing factor to the rise in global bond yields; specifics not detailed in sources reviewed.

14. KEY THEMES — TOP 5 BY HORIZON

TODAY'S TOP 5 (MON 7 SEPT)

1. US Labor Day closure

No US cash session; expect thinner liquidity and muted cross-asset signals into the European open.

2. Soft European open indicated

Futures point modestly lower after Friday's US selloff and a mixed Asian tape; confirm live levels at the open.

3. Eurozone Q2 GDP (trimmed estimate)

Only meaningful scheduled data point today; a downside surprise would weigh on EUR and periphery spreads.

4. Fed repricing continues

Markets digesting ~66% odds of a September hike after Friday's jobs beat; positioning for the FOMC starts now.

5. French political risk overhang

CAC 40's Friday underperformance consistent with pre-2027-election uncertainty; watch for fresh headlines.

THIS WEEK'S TOP 5

1. ECB rate decision, Thursday 10 September

Key policy event of the week; tone matters as much as the decision itself given the divergence with a hawkish Fed.

2. US CPI, Friday 11 September

Last major US inflation print ahead of the 15-16 September FOMC; a hot number would cement hike expectations.

3. Broadcom earnings

Closely watched AI-capex bellwether; read-through for the whole semiconductor/AI infrastructure trade.

4. Oracle, Adobe, Macy's earnings, Thursday 10 September

Cloud/enterprise software and US consumer reads land the same day as the ECB decision.

5. Holiday-shortened US week

Monday's closure compresses positioning into four sessions; watch for thinner liquidity amplifying moves.

THIS MONTH'S TOP 5

1. FOMC decision, 15-16 September

~66% priced probability of a 25bp hike; outcome and Warsh's tone will set the rates trajectory into Q4.

2. Trump-Xi summit, expected late September

Trade/tariff outcome is a binary risk for industrials, autos, semis and agricultural exporters.

3. New ~7.5% China tariff under consideration

On top of existing 10-12.5% tariffs on 60 economies; implementation timing and scope still unclear.

4. French political uncertainty into 2027

A slow-burn risk for OATs and French equities as the electoral cycle approaches.

5. Global bond yield trend

US 10Y near 4.8%, debt-sustainability concerns cited by Reuters as a persistent theme across developed markets.

15. KEY TRENDS TO WATCH

1 DAY

Thin US-holiday liquidity: Monday's moves may be exaggerated by lower volumes with the US shut.

Eurozone Q2 GDP: the day's one scheduled catalyst; a miss would pressure EUR and periphery spreads.

French headlines: any fresh political newsflow could extend Friday's CAC underperformance.

Confirm live futures/FX levels: this section was built pre-weekend; verify at the desk before the open.

1 WEEK

ECB decision, Thursday: policy tone into a widening transatlantic rate divergence.

US CPI, Friday: the last major data point ahead of the Fed's own meeting the following week.

Broadcom / Oracle / Adobe earnings: AI-capex and enterprise-software reads for positioning into month-end.

Primary market: watch whether the "books thinning" signal in euro IG persists or reverses once the US reopens Tuesday.

1 MONTH

FOMC, 15-16 September: the defining event of the month for rates, credit and duration-sensitive equities.

Trump-Xi summit: expected late September; tariff and trade-truce outcome is a major swing factor for global risk assets.

New China tariff rollout: timing and final scope of the reported ~7.5% tariff still to be confirmed.

French political cycle: a structural overhang on French assets as the 2027 election approaches.
